OBJECTIVES OF THE PROJECT

The ultimate objective of this project is to have a district-wide integrated disaster management information and communication system to enable local municipalities to communicate with each other and with the District Municipality. The information on the system will be utilised to manage and take decisions during a significant incident or a disaster.

SCOPE OF WORK

The Sarah Baartman District Municipality invites bids from prospective bidders for the development, cloud-hosting, maintenance and support of a web-based Integrated Disaster Management Information and Communication System for its head office, and seven (7) local municipalities for a period of three (3) years.

The system must be an online (web-based), operational management, reporting and communication tool, developed for Disaster Management and fire services with a wide variety of incidents including but not limited to veld fires, structural fires, social unrest, public events, automobile accidents, hazmat spills, specialist technical rescue.

The system must be user-friendly, easy to use collaboration tool which would enable authorities to communicate across organizational boundaries.

MIGRATION OF HISTORICAL DATA

The service provider will be required to migrate historical data from the old system to the newly developed system.

REPORT CAPTURING

The system must be able to capture the reports below in line with Disaster Management Act and the Disaster Risk Management Policy Framework.

Incident report

The system must allow for users to capture incident reports for a collection of incident types or categories. The incident capture process must guide the user through the process of obtaining the essential information required in order to provide an efficient response and to provide information on specific Standard Operating Procedures related to the incident which is being responded to.

The system must allow for these Standard Operating Procedures to be defined within the application on an incident-by-incident basis should it be required. Once the initial data has been captured, the system should automatically trigger a notification to key persons as setup in the system and then direct the user to capture the secondary information associated to the incident type. All additions and changes to incidents must be stored with information pertaining to the responsible capturer and the time in which the information was added or changed.

The workflow process for incidents must be completely customizable with associated authority levels for each workflow state change.

- Interactive Standard Operating Procedures
The system must allow for the creation of dynamic and interactive Standard Operating Procedures which prompt those involved in the response as to the steps required in order to comply. This should include a prompt alongside the incident capture with a range of pro-active integrations to assist in the compliance of the Standard Operating Procedure such as click to dial, automated text message notifications to the relevant stakeholders or notifying of other assisting agencies.
- Mapping
The system must allow for all incidents to be loaded with an address and a latitude and longitude. This function must allow the operator to plot the incidents on an overview map which must be able to show a high-level overview of all incidents active within the jurisdiction.

- Boundary Marking

The system must allow incident boundaries that would allow the user to track the area of an incident at given intervals. Each boundary added must at least allow for a description to be added to be stored against the incident record. With each boundary added, the operator must be able to add a description in order to provide additional context.

This data is useful for statistical purposes over time in order to find common trends.

Occurrence report

The occurrence report must be a combination of occurrence book messages (which are not associated to an incident) and incident action updates as and when they are captured into the application. All messages and incident action updates must allow for an action time (for cases when the messages need to be backdated) as well as a system capture time to ensure that an audit of the interaction is kept.

By clicking on any of the occurrence book entries, you must have access to a full incident report to provide additional information and context. From the Occurrence Book, you must be able to send a text via email or text message as well as add it to a situation report in cases where the operator has to manage a collection of associated incidents.

Situation Reports

In cases where the operator might have a collection of associated incidents that might need to be grouped for situational reporting purposes, the system must be able to group incidents together into a single view with information about the location of each of the incidents overlaid with applicable risks and points of interest.

Reports and Printouts

The system must allow the operator to export all entries loaded into the reports by date range. This report must be provided in a PDF report, broken up by day with all entries loaded from the different incidents as well as the general occurrence book entries. Additionally, the operator must be able to send any of the entries to authorized contacts via e-mail or SMS.

The system must come standard with at least the following reports:

- Immediate Incident Report - contains limited information only;
- Full Incident Report - contains all information captured;
- Incident Action Report - contains only action updates loaded;

SYSTEM FUNCTIONALITY

Contacts

The system must cater for a built-in contacts book which allows for a central storage location and communication platform for all key personnel and contacts associated with the organization. The user must be able to add and edit contacts. The system must allow for the logical grouping of contacts based on communication needs, severity of incidents from a notifications perspective or geographically, such as a dispatch center, public events location or fire station.

Users and Access Permissions

The system administrator must be able to create a system user and assign access permissions.

Places and Groups

The system must allow the user to create places and groups such as fire stations, disaster management centers and other services, e.g., a police station or community center in a hierarchical style structure. Attached to any one of these structures, you should be able to associate resources and personnel, as well as see further information such as a map of the location.

Search

The system must have an incident search tool which allows the operator to specify criteria from a collection of incident fields ranging from category, date, actions, addresses and references to personnel and resources. The operator must have the option to either export the incidents into an Excel spreadsheet or to display them on a map. The export tool must allow the operator to specify which fields he/she would like included in the spreadsheet and then it should allow for the report to either be downloaded or emailed to a recipient.

Rostering

The rostering system must at least allow users to create shifts and to add personnel to a particular shift period and resource. Once created, users must be able to download a PDF printout of upcoming shift assignments and distribute accordingly. This information must also automatically be included in the live occurrence book when completed, ensuring that all key parties are kept informed of changes in personnel availability.

Data Upload / Download

The system must have a document management system integrated allowing for documents to be uploaded against an incident. These must include PDF documents, Spreadsheets, XML files or even photos or videos. These should all automatically be allocated into a structured folder hierarchy accessible via either the incident or the document management page.

Security and Compatibility

- Provision of Secure Socket Layer Certificate (SSL) for the Integrated Disaster Management Information System
- Service provider must have multiple layers of security for 24 hours, 7 days and 365 days a year (information must be encrypted).
- Limit login attempts to avoid brute force attacks.
- The Integrated Disaster Management Information System must be compatible with various devices including but not limited to notebooks, personal computers, tablets, iPads, smart phones including android and iOS operating systems.
- The Integrated Disaster Management Information System must be a responsive and adaptive website that can be accessed by the aforementioned devices, irrespective of screen size or resolution.

COMMUNICATION

Notifications

The system must allow you to allocate personnel to receive notifications either at a generic level (for all incidents at a place) or to specific incident categories and severity levels, ensuring that all individuals are kept up to date with information applicable to them and their portfolio.

The system must have full integrated email and SMS Text Message communication allowing for real-time updates for key role players directly from the system. The system must be capable of sending messages to individuals or all contacts within a group or place. The system must maintain a full message history that could be searched, not only on message content, but on recipient and date range as well.

Sending of SMS Text Message or Email must be available from any page within the application, from the Occurrence Book or from within an incident from the action updates based on predefined notification groups.

The system must be able to monitor an SMS to allow for the public to SMS a dedicated number to report incidents. These messages must then go into a moderation queue for verification to be added to an existing incident or to be used to initiate a new incident.

SYSTEM SUPPORT

Hosting, Maintenance and Support

At least a working day support team, both for user as well as technical support, must be available that could be contacted from Monday to Friday between 08h00 and 17h00, as well as after hours on a standby arrangement, either via telephone or via a ticket email option.

The Integrated Disaster Management Information System must be hosted in the cloud by the bidder and must be available without interruptions.
