

MALAJIKA BROTHERS PROVE COMPETITION BREEDS CHAMPIONS

When brothers are sparring partners, heroes emerge

By BONGANI MAGASELA

When individuals interact and challenge each other, they both grow stronger and become more effective. That is how best to describe the sudden success of the Malajika brothers – Ricardo, 26, and Charlton – who are gym mates at Brian Mitchell Boxing Academy in Edenvale, where Manny Fernandes hones their skills. Ricardo is the two-weight world IBO champion, and his success is rubbing off on brother Charlton, 24, the reigning junior-bantamweight champion whose belt will be on the line for the third time when he welcomes Filipino Jayson “Smasher” Mama in the headliner of the Golden Gloves tournament at Emperors Palace on August 9. “Magic Man”, as Ricardo is known, made history in March when he moved the weight down and dethroned flyweight champion Jack “M3” Chauke with a second-round KO at Emperors Palace. He has since vacated that belt. The Malajikas spar against each other with no restrictions.

“We bliksem each other,” giggled Ricardo. Asked if that did not affect their kinship, he said: “We both know it’s a sport, and also that it will help us learn from each other.” The fifth-born son from a family of seven boys, Ricardo wants to become a multiple-weight world champion. He idolises Manny “Pac Man” Pacquiao, the Filipino, who is the only eight-division world champion in boxing history. “The difference is that Pacquiao started at flyweight, and I started at junior-bantamweight,” he said. his corner, said Fernandes has changed them a lot since he began training them last year. “I believe he’s the best,” he said. Racardo won the junior-bantamweight belt in September 2023 with Mtolo, who was replaced by Fernandes in January last year. Fernandes and Ricardo have chalked up two successful defences, and the historic victory against Chauke.
