2. Background

Necsa plans to establish a plasma gasification demonstration facility in a laboratory on-site to volumetrically reduce solid, compressible, low-level nuclear waste. Two moisture traps are utilized within the facility, as follows:

1. The moisture trap, Y1511, is installed in the main process off-gas line from the wet scrubber, S1501, in the facility to remove any moisture, either in the form of water or scrubbing liquid, above the saturation level in the gas. The position of the moisture trap within the process is reflected in the attached Piping and Instrumentation Diagram (P&ID) [03], with detail given in the attached Specification Sheet [01].
2. The moisture trap, Y1701, is installed within the compressed air supply system, which supports and services the facility. Its function is to remove water from the incoming crude compressed air, before the air enters the purification system, Y1702. The position of the moisture trap within the compressed air supply system is reflected in the attached P&ID [04], with detail given in the attached Specification Sheet [02].

Equipment No.	Technical Information	Supplier Make / Model
Y1701 (1 moisture trap)	1½" inlet tube diameter, 9.0 m <sup>3</sup> /min nominal volume flow, 16 bar maximum working pressure, 0.007 MPa pressure differential, 66 °C maximum working temperature, 99% efficiency	ZAN-TECH Revolution Water Separator Model WS100G
Y1511 1 moisture trap)	2" inlet tube diameter, 9.0 m <sup>3</sup> /min nominal volume flow, 16 bar maximum working pressure, 0.007 MPa pressure differential, 66 °C maximum working temperature, 99% efficiency	ZAN-TECH Revolution Water Separator Model WS250G
