APPENDIX A - PURPOSE OF THIS DOCUMENT

Short description of the business being done, its context, and the reason for the project. Also, describe the work that the SABS intends to do with the delivered product:

A fire test chamber is utilized in the testing of fire propagation on distribution cables. The test is often conducted on both low and medium voltage insulated distribution cables designed to restrict the propagation of fire. Testing is done to establish whether the material used in cable construction is self-extinguishing and whether the risk is sufficiently mitigated.

The chamber is requested as part of a strategic plan for the laboratory to increase testing capability for electrical cables. It is therefore a strategic requisition to improve laboratory testing capability and thus reduce reliance on subcontracting, or witness testing, whilst also upskilling personnel within the laboratory.
