Technical Specification for the provision of joint development of Passive Radar for Air Traffic Control to the CSIR.

RFP No.3624.1/15/08/2024

1. INVITATION FOR PROPOSAL

Proposals are hereby invited for the provision of joint development of Passive Radar for Air Traffic Control to the CSIR.

The purpose of the Request for Proposal (RFP) is to obtain capability, pricing and general information on the business of potential Contractors for the CSIR to determine the Contractors most capable of providing the service.

This RFP document details and incorporates, as far as possible, the tasks and responsibilities of the potential bidder required by the CSIR.

This RFP does not constitute an offer to do business with the CSIR, but merely serves as an invitation to bidder(s) to facilitate a requirements-based decision process.

Responses to this Request for Proposal (RFP) (hereinafter referred to as a Bid or a Proposal) are requested from suitably qualified entities (hereinafter referred to as a Respondent or Bidder) for the provision of joint development of Passive Radar for Air Traffic Control to the CSIR.

PROPOSAL SPECIFICATION

All proposals are to be submitted in a format specified in this enquiry. However, tenderers are welcome to submit additional / alternative proposals over and above the originally specified format.

The required services for the Joint Development of Passive Radar for Air Traffic Control with the CSIR is to assist in providing assembled IT and data acquisition infrastructure for the passive radar network, both at the radar sensor nodes as well as at the central processing node. These nodes have electronics consisting of a server grade, x86 derivative computer. The radar sensor nodes will in addition, consist of PCI-Express graphics processors and a PCI-Express data acquisition (sampler) card. Depending on the scope of the project, certain server grade computers may be swapped for rugged VPX or Compact PCI Serial form factor. All computer hardware will run GNU Linux variants and be connected together on a computer network with Ethernet via WiFi, fibre or copper medium.

The required technical capability in IT and data acquisition infrastructure include:

- Assembly of computer hardware including server grade, and VPX/Compact PCI serial.
- Load radar node software image.
 - Software imaging
 - Software configuration management / versioning.
- Stress testing computer hardware.
 - Memory tests, cooling tests underload etc.
- Running of system tests on radar nodes, these include the radar sensor and central processing nodes.
 - Run automated test process for a full node check.
 - Linux operating system knowledge.
 - RF test equipment knowledge (test signal injection etc).
 - In-field software update.

The proposal will be evaluated based on technical capability and cost provided by the service provider should include:

- Track record of design and development of radar and/or electronic warfare and or communication systems (please provide information on the projects including R&D aspects and outcomes thereof clearly showing that it has been executed by the name of the company submitting the bid).
- Track record of engineering work being conducted with CSIR or any Research Council (please provide any proof such as MOUs, Agreements, etc, clearly showing that it has been executed by the name of the company submitting the bid).
- Track record of engineering work being conducted with ATNS or any Air Service Providers (please provide any proof such as MOUs, Agreements, etc, clearly showing that it has been executed by the name of the company submitting the bid).
- Track record of IT and data acquisition infrastructure work conducted (please provide any proof such as MOUs, Agreements, etc, clearly showing that it has been executed by the name of the company submitting the bid).
- CVs of the personnel that will be providing the services (clearly showing the personnel are from the company submitting the bid).
- Relevant qualification and experience information.
- Suppliers to disclose if they are currently or have previously worked on Passive Radar or related technologies.

The service provider will be required to provide pricing/cost in terms of hourly rates for financial year 2023-2024 up to the financial year 2027-2028 for:

- Systems Engineer
- Senior Software Engineer
- Software Engineer
- Electronic/Mechanical Technician

The number of actual hours the tasks will depend on the scope and budget available and will be subject to the CSIR receiving funding from the TIA. Proceeding to new tasks will be subject to the CSIR accepting outputs of previous tasks.

BACKGROUND

Passive radar shown in Figure 1 is a class of radar that makes use of third-party illuminators, for example, public broadcasting services such as Frequency Modulation (FM) radio, to illuminate an aircraft(s) of interest and subsequently locate and track these aircraft by processing the signals reflected from the aircraft. Given the absence of a dedicated transmitter subsystem in passive radar systems, it serves as a cost-effective radar solution that requires no spectrum licensing and significantly lower acquisition and operational costs compared to active (conventional) radar. These advantages make passive radar a contender for applications such as air surveillance or gap-filling to active radar networks, or even in the long term, a possible replacement to primary surveillance radars.

The CSIR has conducted research and development (R&D) in passive radar for over the past decade and has established a deep capability in this field that includes several PhDs and technology demonstrators. The CSIR has established an FM band passive radar network in the Gauteng region for performance characterisation and has gained a high degree of confidence in the technology.

The CSIR's vision is to create a South African Passive Radar Product for Air Traffic Control with CSIR as design authority in collaboration with ATNS that is manufactured in South Africa and sold globally. In 2017 and 2023, the CSIR and Air Traffic Navigation Services (ATNS) signed an MoU for R&D in the Civil Aviation Sector.

Passive Radar was identified as a disruptive emerging technology high on the priority list. In 2019, the CSIR and ATNS entered technical discussions on the use of Passive Radar for Non-Cooperative Air Traffic Surveillance at Kruger Mpumalanga International Airport towards creating an RSA Passive Radar.

The CSIR and ATNS subsequently approached the Technology Innovation Agency (TIA) and secured funding phased over five years to mature, qualify, and commercialise the current CSIR Passive Radar for Air Traffic Control (TRL 6 to TRL 9).

The materials required for the CSIR passive radar technology are predominantly commercial off the shelf (COTS) with preference to source from South African companies. The production of the CSIR passive radar technology as a solution is well suited to be manufactured/integrated by South African industry and in particular; small and medium-sized enterprises (SMME).

From the onset, the CSIR vision for the technology has been to realise a world-class indigenous passive radar product manufactured in South Africa and used globally. The CSIR seeks to involve a bidder during the development phase to support the CSIR and ATNS with skills required for manufacturing that would include system integration, software development, procurement, electronic equipment test/measurement and radar/RF equipment test /measurement. The bidder is also intended to perform installation and maintenance at a later stage.
