1. CORPORATE BACKGROUND

- 1.1. The Centre for Public Service Innovation (CPSI) is a Government Component (listed in Schedule 3A of the Public Service Act) reporting to the Minister for the Public Service and Administration, established to entrench the culture and practice of innovation in the public sector.
- 1.2. The mandate of the CPSI is articulated in Government Notice 700, Gazetted on 2 September 2011.
- 1.3. The CPSI is currently partnering with the National Advisory Council on Innovation (NACI) to assess the current status of innovation in the public sector. The initiative consists of both qualitative and quantitative aspects.
- 1.4. These terms of reference relate to the quantitative part (Phase 3) of the project.

2. PROJECT DESCRIPTION

- 2.1. The CPSI requires the services of a qualified service provider to conduct a quantitative assessment of Public Service Innovation in South Africa. The research areas, research questions, and methodology should be informed by the earlier work that includes a literature review (Phase 1) and a qualitative survey with case studies (Phase 2). Therefore, the survey should, as a minimum, cover the following specific aspects:
  - a. Develop a survey instrument (questionnaire), in collaboration with CPSI and NACI, to assess the status and nature of public sector innovation in South Africa.
    - I. The development of the instrument should be informed by distilled insights and lessons that have emanated from the following:
      - completed literature review (Phase 1) and the qualitative survey (Phase 2), both on public sector innovation,
      - the Municipal Innovation Maturity Index (MIMI),
      - international instruments such as the Innovation Barometer and OECD instruments for benchmarking.
    - II. The survey is to consider these aspects:
      - modalities of the study,
      - types of methods to be applied in a survey,
      - number of observations,
      - stratification of a sample(s) based on relevant criteria.
    - III. The survey instrument should provide statistically significant evidence-based results, whose outcomes could be used for further policy advice on how to benchmark and make data-driven recommendations to help improve mainstreaming of innovation in a way that enhances the effectiveness of government departments and public sector organisations to achieve national objectives faster, cost-effectively, and with increased citizen or beneficiary satisfaction.
    - IV. The survey instrument should assess innovation at individual, team, organisational and systems levels, in line with other global instruments. The survey should also consider the following areas that still require further investigation as per the baseline survey:<sup>1</sup>

- work environment, especially amongst middle management and frontline employees,
  - organisational research activities that can lead to innovation and an alignment with research projects,
  - collaboration with non-profit organisations (NPOs) and the private sector (SMMEs and individual innovators),
  - implementation of innovation-related projects versus the actual research conducted,
  - funding of research and innovation activities, and
  - inputs, activities and outcomes (impacts) of innovation initiatives.
- b. Assess, with the developed instrument, the state of public sector innovation at national and provincial levels. The assessment should:
- i. Provide statistically significant results. As such, a stratified methodology should be adopted to ensure representative samples in terms of:
    - Provincial and national departments and entities
    - Senior and middle management and frontline staff
    - Sectoral weighting (i.e. consider the relative size of departments)
- c. Develop a dataset of all received questionnaires.
- d. Develop an analytical report of findings with an executive summary.
- e. Develop infographics of key results and findings.

2.2. The following requirements must be reflected in the proposal:

- a. The service provider must demonstrate an understanding of and experience in the field of innovation and quantitative research.
- b. Have a proven record of conducting quantitative assessments
- c. Any sub-contracted work/research should be clearly specified in the required SBD form, and failure to disclose such will result in disqualification.

3. TIME FRAMES

3.1. This is a once-off contract. Estimated duration of the assessment: 6 months

4. CONTRACTUAL ARRANGEMENTS

- 4.1. The successful service provider will be contracted to and paid by the Centre for Public Service Innovation (CPSI).
- 4.2. The CPSI reserves the right not to appoint where there is dissatisfaction in terms of the supplier's adherence to the specifications. The CPSI reserves the right to reduce/adjust a contract where a supplier did not adhere to the requirements of this specifications.
