2. Purpose

The Industrial Development Corporation administers the Industrial Policy Support Fund (IPSF) on behalf of the Department of Trade, Industry and Competition ("the dtic"). This tender is therefore facilitated by the IDC on behalf of the dtic.

The purpose of the Terms of Reference (ToR) is to appoint a suitably qualified service provider to conduct an industry analysis of Bulk Material Handling equipment, in particular reclaimers, stackers and ship-loaders. The findings of the study will guide the dtic and the National Treasury Department regarding localisation of equipment and/or components of Bulk Material Handling sub-sector as guided by the designation policy.

3. Background Information

Industrial Policy is by its nature an iterative process, implying that the building of industrial capabilities is a step-by-step process. It is not possible for any economy to master highly advanced and complex industrial capabilities, if basic and intermediate capabilities are not in place. This means that policies need to continually adapt to developments in every industrial sector. The key to industrial policy is thus how effectively it can adapt to a very dynamic environment.

In supporting the re-industrialization agenda, government (the dtic) has made various incentives available across the manufacturing sector. Notwithstanding the incentives made available to industry, industrial policy is still faced with key challenges amongst others is the influx of imported products which negatively impact the country's trade balance. In the recently signed-off Steel Master Plan, the Captains of the steel industry together with Labour/Solidarity have amongst other interventions identified and mandated government to prioritize and enforce localisation. Localisation of sectors has been cited as one of the key deliverables with clear timelines indicated in some of steel Master Plan Pillars.

Industrial policy therefore needs to make a concerted effort to ensure that support for investment through localisation is realised in order to stimulate steel demand infrastructure development programmes, in particular within the Bulk Material Handling sub-sector. Various bulk material handling equipment are used throughout the process of manufacturing, distribution, and consumption of the material across industries and sectors.

South Africa has however witnessed a surge in imports of bulk material handling equipment and related components which have largely contributed to the country's trade deficit. In an attempt to curb the surge in imports, the dtic working together with the National Treasury has developed policy levers that aimed at not only reducing the trade deficit but also increasing employment levels in the manufacturing space through re-industrialisation. The recent past has seen purchase orders of capital equipment being awarded to foreign Original Equipment Manufacturers even when South African manufacturers could have the capacity and capability of supplying these. The importation of the equipment and other related components has further exacerbated to the already ailing steel manufacturing industry and further led to downstream companies closing down resulting to job losses.

It is against this background that the dtic is seeking the services of an external service provider to undertake a full industry analysis of the bulk material handling equipment to determine the extent of the manufacturing capacity and capability, and the types of equipment being procured by State procuring entities. This is done with the aim to identify not only a range of fleets that could be leveraged for strengthening and deepening localisation but also for local supplier development support. Designating and buying locally manufactured products does not only curb the surge in imports and enhance export competitiveness but also has a potential to either increases or retain jobs in designated sectors.

Amongst other things, the study will analyse and provide insights into the Bulk Material Handling manufacturing sector. Put more emphasis on the identification of job creation and small business development opportunities in the labour intensive value chains.

Furthermore, the study will identify possible gaps in the market and inform possible areas of intervention either by the dtic, development finance institutions, financial institutions and industry organisations.

4. Problem Statement

The Bulk Material Handling Equipment is largely dependent on imported goods, with international brands dominating the market. There is minimal evident of economic empowerment transactions within this sector from preferential procurement to supplier development within the sector. It is anticipated that import substitution, economic empowerment and investment in infrastructure should have gained traction to date, but this has not been achieved.

5. Objectives

The objective of the study is to conduct a full-blown industry analysis of Bulk Material Handling equipment, in particular reclaimers, stackers and ship-loaders. The findings of the study will guide the dtic and the National Treasury Department regarding localisation of equipment and/or components of Bulk Material Handling sub-sector as guided by the designation policy.

6. Methodology

The service provider is required to submit a proposal that is fully responsive to the terms of reference and outlines the following:

- It will be imperative for the Service Provider to outline in the methodology why a particular method was chosen, what pros, cons and risk factors are;
