1. BACKGROUND TO THE ROAD ACCIDENT FUND

The Road Accident Fund (RAF) is a schedule 3A Public Entity established in terms of the Road Accident Fund Act, 1996 (Act No. 56 of 1996), as amended. Its mandate is the provision of compulsory social insurance cover to all users of South African roads, to rehabilitate and compensate persons injured as a result of the negligent driving of motor vehicles in a timely and caring manner, and to actively promote the safe use of our roads.

The customer base of the RAF comprises not only the South African public, but all foreigners who may have had accidents within the borders of the country. The RAF head office is in Centurion there will be other Customer Experience Centres in each province in the country.

2. BACKGROUND OF THE PROJECT

The Road Accident Fund (RAF) wishes to appoint a suitable service provider to provide Occupational Hygiene Surveys & Ergonomics risk assessment for RAF Bloemfontein Office.

3. DETAILED SPECIFICATION

Address	Floors	Floor Area
Road Accident Fund (Bloemfontein) Fedsure Building 49 Maitland Street Bloemfontein 8301 Total sqm= 495	Ground Floor	Ground floor = 235 sqm
	Fifth floor	Fifth floor= 260 sqm
		Multi-tenant floor

Occupational Hygienist SurveysIllumination survey

- The survey needs to be conducted to determine whether lighting in the work areas is sufficient for the specific tasks that are performed in those areas, as specified in the schedule to the Environmental Regulations for Workplaces (1987) of the Occupational Health and Safety Act (Act 85 of 1993).
- According to Regulation 3 of the Environmental Regulations for Workplaces (1987) of the Occupational Health and Safety Act (Act 85 of 1993), every employer must ensure that every work area is lighted in accordance with the illuminance values as specified in the Schedule of these regulations. Where specialized lighting is required to perform certain work, the employer must ensure that such lighting is available and that it is used by the employees.

An indoor air quality survey

- The purpose of this survey is to evaluate the indoor air quality of the building. Indoor air quality is determined by evaluating the temperature, relative humidity and the composition of the air. These factors are mainly influenced by the quality of ventilation present in the building.
- Indoor air quality is deemed to be acceptable if air does not contain harmful levels of any known contaminants and if 80 % or more of the employees in the building do not express dissatisfaction.

Ergonomic Risk assessment

- This survey needs to be conducted to identify ergonomic-related risk factors that employees are exposed to in the workplace and to establish the risk to health associated with this exposure.
- The Ergonomic Regulations (2019) of the Occupational Health and Safety Act was observed. Furthermore, section 8 of the Occupational Health and Safety Act (Act 85 of 1993), requires that every employer provides and maintains, as far as is reasonably practicable, a working environment that is safe and free from risk to the health of his employees.
- It further requires that the employer should make an evaluation of the risks attached to conditions which employees are exposed to in the workplace and furthermore, that he should take steps to render such conditions safe where necessary.

A periodic ergonomic Health Risk Assessment must be conducted at intervals not exceeding 24 months in accordance with the Ergonomics Regulations (2019) of the Occupational Health and Safety Act (Act 85 of 1993).

If the premises remain the same, the Ergonomics Risk Assessment should be repeated in 24 months in order to ensure compliance with statutory requirements and recommended standards. However, if the premises change in any instance, the Ergonomic risk assessment survey should be repeated immediately.

1. Illumination survey.

- To determine whether the lighting in the work areas is sufficient for the specific tasks that are performed in those areas, as specified in the schedule to the Environmental Regulations for Workplaces (1987) of the Occupational Health and Safety Act (Act 85 of 1993).

2. An indoor air quality survey

- To evaluate the indoor air quality of the building by evaluating the temperature, relative humidity and the composition of the air.
- To ensure that the time-weighted concentration of carbon dioxide taken over eight (8) hours in the workplace is not more than half percent by volume of air.

3. Ergonomic Risk assessment

- To identify ergonomics-related risk factors that employees are exposed to in the workplace and to establish the risk to health associated with this exposure.

Requirements:

- To be completed by a competent person in relation to ergonomics
This means a person who has in respect of the work or task to be performed the required knowledge, training and experience in ergonomics and where applicable qualifications specific to ergonomics provided that were appropriate qualifications and training are registered in terms of the provisions of the National Qualifications Framework Act, 2008 (Act of 67 of 2008).
- Ergonomic Risk assessment to include the following:
 - A complete Hazard identification
 - The identification of all persons who may be affected by ergonomics risks
 - How employees may be affected by the ergonomic risks
 - The analysis and evaluation of ergonomic risks
 - The prioritization of ergonomic risks
