1. INTRODUCTION

1.1. The National Lotteries Commission mandate

The National Lotteries Commission (NLC) was established in terms of the Lotteries Act No. 57 of 1997, as amended, to regulate the National Lottery as well as other lotteries and society lotteries.

The NLC aims to ensure that funds raised through the National Lottery are distributed equitably and expeditiously across South Africa to advance the social upliftment of communities in need, addressing poverty and reducing inequalities in line with the National Development Plan.

1.2. Stakeholder Engagement and Events Management Services

To support its strategic goals related to stakeholder relations, visibility, and public engagement, the NLC seeks to appoint a panel of suitably qualified and experienced service providers to deliver stakeholder engagement and events management services on an as-and-when-required basis over a three-year period. These services are critical in fostering collaborative relationships, enhancing transparency, and demonstrating the impact of the NLC's work.

2. BACKGROUND

The NLC plays a central role in regulating lotteries and distributing funding to non-profit and community-based organisations across the country. Over the years, the Commission has implemented governance, operational, and communication reforms to better serve the public and its stakeholders.

Stakeholder engagement and events management have become important tools in supporting the NLC's transformation efforts, regulatory responsibilities, and impact storytelling. Effective stakeholder engagement ensures that beneficiaries, partners, and collaborators are informed, included, and involved in shaping the organisation's direction. Events, in turn, provide platforms for visibility, interaction, and showcasing the NLC's contributions to national development.

In alignment with its responsibilities under the Public Finance Management Act (PFMA) Section 51(1)(a), the NLC must ensure effective systems of engagement and outreach. Appointing a panel of experienced providers will ensure consistent, professional, and responsive support in the execution of stakeholder and event-driven activities.
