1. SCOPE OF WORK

1.1. DESCRIPTION

Rand Water is the bulk potable water service provider for Gauteng, parts of Mpumalanga, North West, Free State and surrounding regions and it seeks to apply for a water use License for the abstraction of raw water from the Vaal Dam intake towers. The purpose of this RFQ is to request for a License for the raw water abstraction. Rand Water has identified the need to be authorised for the abstraction of water under the National Water Act, 1998 (Act No 36 of 1998), under section 21 (a) – taking water from a water resource water uses. In Licensing the abstraction of raw water from the Vaal Dam, Rand Water is required to apply for a water use license application (WULA). The WUL process requires technical expertise that may not exist in Rand Water and is required to fill a skills gap. In addition, specific processes require the appointment of an independent practitioner.

An average of 4 430 million litres of water are pumped to consumers on one given day. This supply is done in accordance with its current entitlement from the Department of water and Sanitation (permit 60/16/2/91 under the Water Act, 1956 (Act No 54 of 1956). Due to a continued trend of growing water demand in the Rand Water service delivery area, at an average growth of approx. 1.85 % per year, Rand Water has identified the need to abstract more water to ensure assurance of supply to its customers.

A WUL application is required to include a prescriptive process as part of Government Notice 267, dated March 2017. A public participation process is required to engage with Interested and Affected Parties as part of the process. To empower RW to follow legislative requirements and fulfil this prescriptive process, an independent Environmental Assessment Practitioner (EAP) must be appointed to:

- Determining the information requirements for a Water Use License (WUL).
- Gathering required data and compiling documentation for submission with the electronic Water Use License - Application (eWULA). This application will be through site visits, review of existing information and interaction with Rand Water staff.
- In addition to the WUL application, a demographic population study is required that correlates the predicted population change in the Rand Water area of supply over a 20-year period (2023 to 2043) with a change in water demand requirements. This will cover all areas supplied by billed Rand Water customer meters. Rand Water will then correlate this demographic study information with a current municipal consultation process (where municipalities supply a per-meter analysis) and produce a Top Management Committee (TMC) approved demand projection. This demand projection will be used as part of the WULA.
- Liaising with the Department of Water and Sanitation for the region where the activity is being undertaken.
- Implementing a public participation process as per legislative requirements.
- Producing a dossier/report for Rand Water of the information submitted as part of the eWULA and requested reports from the authority.

The scope of work includes the provision for an EAP that is professionally registered with Environmental Assessment Practitioners Association of South Africa (EAPASA) and South African Council for Natural Scientific Professions (SACNASP), to undertake a WUL Application for the abstraction of water. In addition, the provision of a Demography and Population Studies specialist with a degree for the demographic study portion, capable of compiling a report of current and future population movement (starting from census 2022 information), with an inferred future estimated demand growth. The EAP and population specialist shall collaborate to produce required reports for Rand Water.
