2. BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The Industrial Development Corporation of South Africa Limited (IDC) applies IFRS 9 to estimate Expected Credit Losses (ECL) across its lending portfolio. This provision reduces the value of IDC’s loans and advances on the balance sheet and is recorded as an impairment charge in the income statement thereby lowering reported profit. The reduced profit, in turn, decreases retained earnings, directly affecting IDC’s capital adequacy, financial position and performance. Given the persistently high levels of non-performing loans (NPLs), the ECL figure is a critical component of the Annual Financial Statements (AFS), with implications for capital adequacy, investor confidence, liquidity, and strategic planning.

The impairment tool was developed by in 2018 and implemented via a VBA-driven Excel model that calculates ECLs across 12-month, lifetime (non-credit impaired), and lifetime (credit impaired) stages. These staging transitions reflect the credit quality of the IDC portfolio as onboarded through the deal making and credit assessment process, formally sanctioned by the Executive Credit and Investment Committee (ECIC). While the deal makers and credit officers provide recommendations, ECIC remains the final decision-making body. The ECL output is not merely a modelled estimate but it is a calculation that reflects the financial estimate of IDC’s prior credit decisions over time, shaped by its developmental mandate and the inherent risk characteristics of its cumulative portfolio.

Elevated ECLs are not just technical outputs but they signal the structural risk embedded in IDC’s impact-driven investment strategy, which targets sectors and geographies underserved by commercial finance. While this orientation aligns with IDC’s mandate, it demands rigorous governance, transparent validation, and continuous refinement of credit tools. The IFRS 9 models constitute a core component of the IDC’s forward-looking risk signal framework and are critical to assessing how credit risk recognition supports both the development mandate and ongoing financial sustainability. Although parameters have been validated annually for AFS purposes, this validation is the first formal review of the tool’s documentation, data integrity, and model governance.

In 2022, the staging logic and PD/LGD calibration was reviewed but the review did not assess architecture or the governance of the modelling process. A validation done in 2023 identified material gaps in data lineage, reproducibility, and control environment. Both reviews supported the AFS disclosures but fell short of full IFRS 9 model audit assurance. In line with ALCO’s three-year validation cycle, IDC now seeks external consultants to perform a comprehensive validation of these IFRS 9 models that are critical to restoring ECL integrity and institutional resilience.

3. SCOPE OF WORK/TERMS OF REFERENCE

The IDC seeks to appoint a qualified service provider to conduct a comprehensive validation of its IFRS 9 impairment tools housed in VBA-driven Excel model. The validation exercise is critical to ensuring the integrity and accuracy of IDC's financial position and performance in alignment with IDC's financial sustainability and developmental mandate. The detailed objectives are as follows:

- Conduct a project inception session with IDC's project team and relevant stakeholders in Risk Governance and Portfolio Management (RG&PM), Client Support and Group (CSG), Credit Risk Management Department (CRMD) and Group Finance to clarify business objectives, operational context, and the role of the IFRS 9 impairment tool and related processes across the portfolio.
- Engage IDC's Risk Governance and Portfolio Management (RG&PM) and Client Support and Group (CSG) teams to assess PD, LGD and EAD risk profiles and validate the consistency of staging logic and SICR methodology across business units.
- Engage IDC's Group Finance to understand their role in the IFRS 9 process ensuring alignment with financial reporting and impairment recognition.
- Conduct a data lineage audit from IDC's source systems to final model parameters and outputs, validating completeness, consistency, and control environment integrity.
- Review the VBA-driven Excel impairment model to assess its structural integrity, formula logic, and alignment with documented methodologies and IFRS 9 staging policies (internal and external).
- Access and assess the VBA code underpinning the IFRS 9 Tool to evaluate implementation fidelity, technical robustness, and consistency with the Excel model outputs—addressing gaps flagged in EY's 2023 validation.
- Evaluate the IFRS 9 Tool's platform suitability in terms of version control, operational safeguards, usability, flexibility, and alignment with IDC's strategic and compliance goals especially the automation of the parameter update and reporting process.
- Recommend improvements to model architecture, calibration processes, and governance protocols—including implementation cost estimates and change management considerations.
- Present the findings on the validation framework and model architecture to IDC's Technical Committee for oversight, ensuring governance alignment and traceable decision-making.
- Perform a historical review of IFRS 9 outputs to assess staging migration patterns, SICR triggers, and provisioning trends—evaluating whether the model has met its intended IFRS 9 objectives in respect to the AFS historical information.

- Cross-check macroeconomic overlays and scenario inputs used in ECL calculations, ensuring methodological soundness and relevance to IDC’s portfolio exposures.
- Sign off key findings with IDC’s project team and Technical Committee, ensuring governance traceability and audit defensibility.
- Perform any additional procedures deemed necessary to ensure complete and satisfactory validation of the IFRS 9 impairment models and possibly their IT implementation.
- Provide a written report containing an executive summary, comprehensive findings, and recommendations. Supporting working papers must document any steps or outputs that contravene IDC’s IFRS 9 impairment policies that may distort financial position and performance recognition or impair financial decision-making. IDC’s Model Management Risk Framework, Model Validation policy, model validation reporting standards and all documentation pertaining to the IFRS 9 impairment tools will be provided to the successful bidder.
