ANNEXURE A

1. BACKGROUND

The National Regulator of Compulsory Specifications (hereafter referred to as NRCS) is primarily responsible for the administration of three Acts that reside under its jurisdiction, namely the NRCS Act, the Legal Metrology Act, 2014 (Act 9 of 2014) hereinafter referred to as the Legal Metrology Act, and the National Building Regulations and Building Standards Act, 1977 (Act 103 of 1977) hereinafter referred to as NBR Act. The NRCS also administers regulations that fall under the jurisdiction of other governments departments, as per agreements.

One of the primary legal mandates of the NRCS as per the Legal Metrology Act is to perform market surveillance inspections and make determination of compliance of goods by way of testing products. The primary day to day equipment used to perform such testing by the Legal Metrology inspectorate would be an electronic inspection balance used to weigh goods in order to measure the net content of mass and volume of products being inspected. These inspection balances are critical tools of the trade for the inspection function.

2. ANALYSIS

The existing inspection balances used during market surveillance inspection activity are over 17 years old, way past their usable lifespan. Repairs are prohibitively expensive and replacement parts are becoming obsolete. This leads to an increase in the operational and maintenance cost of the existing equipment. Once parts become obsolete NRCS Legal Metrology unit will not be able to provide for the functions as per the Legal Metrology Act, 2014.

3. TECHNICAL SPECIFICATION

The 26 x inspection balances must meet the following basic requirements:

3.5 Operational Instruction Manual to be included, including calibration procedure.
