REQUEST FOR TENDER

Terms of Reference for the appointment of a suitable Service Provider to develop Business Continuity Plan for the Department of Higher Education and Training

The Department of Higher Education and Training (Risk, Fraud, Ethics and Integrity Management Directorate) is requesting potential service providers to submit proposals for a tender to develop Business Continuity Plan for the Department.

PART A – INFORMATION ON THE TENDER

1. BACKGROUND

The Department of Higher Education and Training (DHET) was established in May 2009 with the purpose of leading the transformation of the post-school education and training (PSET) system and sector across South Africa. Since its establishment, the DHET has experienced major changes with serious impact on the Department's day-to-day operations.

The first of these changes was the DHET Function Shift which was initially announced in Circular No 1/2014. As part of government's effort to transform and broaden South Africans' access to the Post-School Education and Training in the country, by way of Proclamation, early in 2009, the President of the Republic, established two new Departments, namely, the Department of Basic Education (DBE) and the Department of Higher and Education and Training (DHET). Following that decision, the very first Council of Education Ministers (CEM) of the new administration had requested that the Minister of Higher Education and Training (MHET) completely take over the functions of Further Education and Training (FET) Colleges and that of what back then was known as Adult Education and Training (AET) Centres, now Community Education and Training Centers (CET).

On the 1 April 2015, the full function shift in regards to both FET and AET came into effect resulting into major disruptions in the existing operations of the Department of Higher Education and Training, the impact to which the Department continues to deal with. With the decision the functions of the Technical and Vocational Education and Training (TVET) Colleges as well as the Community Education and Training (CET) were subsequently transferred from the provincial education departments to the Department of Higher Education and Training. The transfer of these functions was done in line with the Continuing Education and Training Act, 2006 (Act No. 16 of 2006) (CET Act, 2006).

On 30 May 2019, following the country's successful elections, and the decision by government to reduce the number of Ministry in line with the idea of running a reduced cabinet and "Joined-Up" government, the Department experienced another major significant change, that resulted into a merger between the two ministries, the Ministry of Science and Technology and the Ministry of Higher Education and Technology to create a new Ministry, the Ministry of Higher Education, Science and Technology consisting of two departments, the Department of Higher Education and Training and the Department of Science and Technology.

The department has been forced to look at the issue of Business Continuity Management (BCM) and its introduction and implementation. However considering lack of capacity and budgetary constraints, the Department is talking an incremental approach in both the introduction and implementation of various elements of the BCM. As a result the Department has prioritised the development of the Business Continuity Plan (BCP).

It is in the light of this as backdrop that the Department deems it necessary to develop a Business Continuity Plan which among others, will assist to deal with all these ongoing developments whilst at the same time, preparing itself for other unavoidable future eventualities. In the midst of all these, the DHET is also acutely aware of the fact that in spite, all organisations are susceptible to serious causes of business disruptions. Therefore, among others, the idea of a Business Continuity Plan will enable and equip the Department with proactive mechanisms to anticipate risks and threats during downturns and also assist in the security of valuable data and information. The plan will also assist the organisation when it is confronted with unforeseeable interruptions or disruptions that are not limited to but include natural disasters, technological failures or threats of (cyber-attacks), human errors, terrorism, or maintenance failures.

One of the discussions ushered in by the advent of the Fourth Industrial Revolution, is owing to some of the disruptive trends that continue to pose a significant challenge to the old paradigms of conducting business, in both the private as well as in the public sectors, is phenomenon of an Agile (Learning) Organisation. An Agile Organisation is largely defined not only by the organisation's ability to respond quick, intelligently and with dexterity to rapid change in the environment in which it operates but also to adopt itself to such change. Whilst on the other hand a Learning Organisation learns from the environment in which it operates, particularly from the challenges it confronts in order to improve itself.

In order to manage and mitigate the impact of a plethora the unforeseeable disasters and business interruptions/disruptions, that have become synonymous with the environment in which organisations including DHET operate in, historically, many organisations have traditionally relied on a Disaster Contingency Recovery Plan (DCRP) or Disaster Recovery Plan (DRP). As the case with other sectors, business continuity plans are critical aspect of the post school education and training sector.

Colleges such as TVETs, CETs and universities are obligated by the laws that govern them to protect all the information that relate to the records of their students, faculty, staff, and visitors whilst at the same time, at all times, providing the safeguard the physical security of those involved and the maintenance of effective and efficient operations in the event of a major/minor interruptions/disruptions. DHET strongly believes that, having a Business Continuity Plan (BCP), will therefore help enable the Department and the Post-Education and Training Sector, to remain functional during major disruptions or interruptions and will also enable the Department to get back to 'normal operations' as soon as possible, following events involving such disruptions or interruptions.

For institutions of higher education such as Technical, a business continuity plan ensures the ability to resume business operations should a crisis occur. The plan should cover all technical and non-technical areas of the university's business operations, including a plan for communication, data storage and recovery, system applications, network access, institutional processes, and human resource Business

Continuity Planning plays a pivotal role in ensuring that in times of business interruptions, there is a coordinated response to likely incidents and also that a clear strategy for recovering as quickly as possible. By developing a business continuity plan, an organization is able to minimise losses during times of business interruptions, while continuing to serve clients whilst maintaining an effective and efficient administrative operations.

2. PURPOSE OF THE TENDER

Business Continuity Management (BCM) is responsible for the development, implementation and maintenance of policies, strategies and programmes that play a pivotal role in assisting organisations to not only manage events that are disruptive/interruptive to business, but to also build resilience and respond with agility and adapt themselves to the ever-changing environment in which they operate. It involves the capability of the organisations to prevent, prepare for, respond to, manage and recover from the impact of a business disruption as well as adapting themselves to whatever change that may come their way.

Therefore, the purpose of this Terms of Reference is invite the services of suitably qualified and a reliable bidder with a proven track-record to develop a Business Continuity Plan (BCP) for the Department of Higher Education and Training, in accordance with Business Continuity Management (BCM) industry standards for the sector. The successful bidder will be expected to work closely with Senior Management or delegated officials from across the Department focusing primarily on the operations of the national office at 123 Francis Baard building; other strategic areas that include Ndinaye building; INDLELA and the National Examinations Chief Directorate located at 222 Struben Street (DBE building).

Whilst due to the rapid nature of change that the Department has experienced to date, associated with some of the events highlighted in the background, some of the issues that include the inherent risk that comes with such events, may not yet have found expression in the current risk register in order to provide reasonable assurance for continuity. So the development of BCP will nonetheless, have to take all of them into account to ensure adequate continuity. As part of institutionalising the culture associated with Business Continuity in the Department, the expectation is that the development of BCP will also need to take into account issues of training and awareness.
