TERMS OF REFERENCE

APPOINTMENT OF A SERVICE PROVIDER TO PROVIDE CONCEPT, COORDINATION AND PROJECT MANAGEMENT FOR THE 30-YEAR CELEBRATION OF DEMOCRACY ON BEHALF OF THE DEPARTMENT OF SPORT, ARTS AND CULTURE (DSAC) FOR A PERIOD OF NINE (9) MONTHS APRIL – DECEMBER 2024.

1. INTRODUCTION

1.1. The National Department of Sport, Arts, and Culture (DSAC) seeks to appoint a service provider(s) that will provide coordination, project management, and the implementation of programmes/projects for the 30-year celebration of South Africa's Democracy on behalf of the Department of Sport, Arts, and Culture (DSAC) between the period April to December 2024.

1.2. The year 2024, South Africa will mark 30 years of democracy. Given the pivotal role played by South African men and women to emancipate the country by directly challenging white supremacy, which eroded the dignity of the majority of South Africa, especially the black people, the President has mandated the Minister of Sport, Arts and Culture to establish a Coordination Team for the 30 years celebration of democracy.

1.3. The idea is to mobilise South Africans from all walks of life to celebrate the commitments of the democratic government to achieving strong, sustainable, and balanced social, economic, and political growth.

1.4. The commemoration of 30 years of democracy will coincide with the 7th democratic national elections. As the country will be going to the polls for the National Government Elections, the celebration becomes even more relevant in maintaining the enthusiasm surrounding the 30-year celebration of democracy. Therefore, this is an opportune time for South Africans to collectively reflect on their contributions against oppression and discrimination in South Africa as a nation. Given this context, it is truly significant for all South Africans to celebrate the 30-year legacy of liberation and freedom from the shackles of colonial rule.

1.5. At the heart of the establishment of a democratic society in South Africa was the notion of transformative constitutionalism, aimed at redressing the legacy of inequality, structural oppression, and systematic discrimination created by colonial rule and apartheid policies. The celebration of 30 years of democracy requires the Government of South Africa to acknowledge and celebrate the gains and achievements since 1994 under the democratic state while reflecting on the challenges, opportunities, emerging trends, and threats. The 30-year celebration coincides with the arrival of the 7th administration. Therefore, this celebration provides an opportunity for the country to conduct an in-depth analysis and review the current political, social, economic, political and security landscape of the country and make clear commitments and recommendations that would influence the priorities of the upcoming 7th administration.

2. BACKGROUND

2.1. The year 1994 is of great significance in South Africa as it marks the beginning of democracy. South Africa was liberated from the colonial rule in 1994 when the first democratic election was held. Central to the democratic dispensation agenda was the redressing of the legacy of colonial rule and end of triple oppression (race, gender, class), socio-economic inequalities, structural oppression, patriarchy, and sexism. The 1994 transition created a democratic order governed by the new Constitution, which has become the cornerstone of equality, individual rights, and community responsibilities in South Africa.

2.2. In 1996, a democratic Constitution was officially adopted, which laid down the foundation for human rights in South Africa. This Constitution garnered acclaim from many commentators as “one of the most progressive” globally for adopting a human rights-based approach and demonstrating a strong determination to eliminate societal inequalities, all while incorporating the fundamental human rights contained in international law. The Bill of Rights, as contained in the Constitution, serves as a strategic framework with the main objective of guiding South Africa’s transformation to achieve the vision Africa wants. South Africa, under the democratic government, concerns itself with the liberation ideals of fighting colonialism, racial discrimination, and apartheid, amongst other political objectives. Democracy in South Africa aims to redirect the focus of South Africans towards inclusive socio-economic growth and development.

2.3. The transition from the apartheid government to a democratic government led to the dismantling of apartheid policies, legislation, and practices, and the adoption of the Reconstruction and Development Programme, which to date continues to influence the democratic policies, legislation, and practices. At the core of the apartheid order was a deliberate commitment to promote segregation, oppression, and inequality, which impoverished many South African communities, as the allocation of resources to address the socio-economic needs of people was divided along racial lines. The inequalities under colonial rule restricted development, empowerment, and poverty eradication amongst other things. Therefore, the inception of a democratic rule played an essential role in building a transformed state grounded on social engineering designed to promote civil and political rights, as well as social and economic rights. The fight against apartheid was primarily motivated by a determination to establish an inclusive and equal society in South Africa. Addressing the imbalances created by apartheid rule has been central to the growth and development of South Africa since 1994.

2.4. In a nutshell, the liberation struggle of South Africa was against oppressive and discriminatory laws and policies, including pass laws and the inhumane treatment of black people. This involved the use of force to incarcerate them in concentration camps, banishment, banning, detention, and house arrest. The struggle aimed to rectify the denial of black people's political and civil rights, as well as the prejudice in the apartheid government's fulfillment of civil, political, social, and economic rights. It is for these reasons that South Africa should take deliberate steps to celebrate the milestones and gains of democracy.

3. PURPOSE OF THE 30-YEAR CELEBRATION

These obligations and commitments, as articulated in national and international frameworks, have provided a solid foundation for South Africa to advance as a democratic state grounded in the principles of human dignity, equality, human rights and freedoms, non-racialism, non-sexism, the supremacy of the Constitution and the rule of law, democracy, social justice, equity, and respect.
