SECTION V: SPECIFICATIONS

THE APPOINTMENT OF THE SERVICE PROVIDER FOR SEISMIC ACQUISITION AND PROCESSING AND ACQUISITION AND PROCESSING OF SUPPORTING GEOPHYSICAL DATA, ONSHORE SOUTH AFRICA.

1. INTRODUCTION

The Petroleum Agency SA, hereafter referred to as the Agency, is a state-owned entity incorporated in 1999. The Agency receives its mandate from the Mineral and Petroleum Resources Development Act, 2002, (Act No. 28 of 2002) (MPRDA). The MPRDA is the principal statute that governs the regulatory function of Government on mineral and petroleum resources and is administered, through presidential proclamation by the Department of Mineral Resources and Energy (DMRE).

The mandate of the Agency is the promotion and regulation of the upstream petroleum industry in South Africa. It is thus responsible for administering the petroleum section of the MPRDA. The Agency's mandate includes both the onshore and offshore upstream petroleum industry, managing, interpreting, evaluating, adding value to, disseminating and dealing with all geological or geophysical information relating to petroleum.

2. BACKGROUND AND DELIBERATION

While committed to achieving carbon neutrality by 2050, it remains the Government of South Africa's stated policy and desire to develop the country's indigenous natural gas and oil resources to ensure national energy security, stability, and economic development. South Africa is on a clear path to respond to national developmental imperatives by exploring, discovering, quantifying, and developing its indigenous petroleum resources in an environmentally sustainable and responsible manner.

Approximately 13,000 km of single-fold 2D seismic reflection data was acquired across the Karoo Basin by the former South African national oil company SOEKOR from 1966 to 1971. The quality of the data is highly variable, of low resolution and compromised. Consequently, basic seismic interpretation is very challenging and advanced seismic-stratigraphy techniques are not feasible.

A key objective of the proposed scope of work is to better understand the geology, regional structure and basin geometry of the area demarcated. To achieve the objective, the acquisition of new high resolution 2D reflection seismic and supporting geophysical data is proposed.

Such a seismic acquisition programme should be tailored to the specific geological conditions of the Karoo Basin (topography, dolerite intrusions) using modern techniques and be supported by high resolution potential field data (for example, airborne magnetic and magneto-telluric surveys).

The value envisaged is that such an integrated data set enables detailed interpretation of subsurface structure, thickness and intrusion density, not possible with existing legacy onshore seismic data. This will allow for a reduction in uncertainty of the risk parameters, target identification (thickness) and hydrocarbon preservation from direct volcanic intrusions.

With the new data and interpretation from existing exploration/ stratigraphic wells, drilled in the area, important subsurface maps can be created/ updated as follows:

- Structural maps for formation tops
- Formation thickness maps
- Depositional environment and facies
- Extent and geometry of dolerite sills and dykes
- Structural patterns (faults, dips)
- Fluid escape features (gas emissions)
- Prospective targets and areas to be excluded from exploration

Structural seismic mapping will also inform the geo-environmental baseline research initiatives underway, such as implementation of a groundwater monitoring network, well risk integrity assessments and seismicity monitoring network by identifying and aiding the delineation of areas that are too risky and which should be excluded from exploration programmes, and lead to the adequate regulation of the geological aspects of potential petroleum exploitation in South Africa.

Acquisition and interpretation of such an integrated data set is performed in the context of the regional geology, with a view of understanding the basin architecture and structural character.

A structural geology approach is therefore envisaged to understand:

- a. Structural trends and for the identification of leads and possibly delineation of hydrocarbon traps.
- b. Geological pathways, which, if not properly understood and mitigated, may lead to long-term pollution of groundwater and surface water and methane emissions.
- c. Faults and naturally occurring seismicity.

In pursuance of sustainable development of South Africa's onshore petroleum resources (conventional and unconventional), proposals are hereby invited from companies involved in geophysical data acquisition and processing, to enter into an agreement with the Agency for 2D reflection seismic data acquisition and processing, and acquisition and processing of supporting geophysical data (airborne magnetic and magneto-telluric) over the area defined as 'block for data acquisition' or part thereof (Figure 1) which forms part of the greater Karoo Basin.

3. PROJECT OBJECTIVES

The Department of Mineral Resources and Energy (DMRE) through Petroleum Agency SA is evaluating geological risk and promoting South Africa's frontier onshore for petroleum. In this quest, the Agency seeks to engage a competent Company for the following:

- 3.1. Acquire and process new 2D land seismic data over the area or part thereof (Figure 1) to obtain modern high-resolution subsurface seismic profiles to map and improve understanding of the regional geology of the subterranean south-central Karoo Basin. Imaging objectives include improved delineation of structures, faults, fault closures, stratigraphic traps, fluid escape features, dolerite sill, and dyke complexes within the Beaufort and Ecca groups of the Karoo Supergroup compared to the legacy data.
- 3.2. Acquire and process new airborne magnetic and magneto-telluric over the area or part thereof (Figure 1) to support seismic interpretation and to map and improve understanding of the regional geology and structure of the subterranean south-central Karoo Basin.
- 3.3. An initial regional interpretation of all the datasets and reporting thereon to demonstrate the structural and stratigraphic complexity of the subsurface.
- 3.4. Engaging PASA staff in the acquisition, processing, and interpretation of the newly acquired data as an integral part of technology transfer and capacity building.

4. PROPOSALS FOR DATA ACQUISITION AND PROCESSING

Companies wishing to submit proposals may do so for one (1) thousand to two (2) thousand line-kilometres (1000 km to 2000 km) of 2D land vibroseis seismic survey over the area or part thereof (Figure 1). Proposals must clearly demonstrate a good understanding on the part of the proposing Company of what is required.

The Company submitting the successful data acquisition and processing proposal will be required to apply for Environmental Authorisation in terms of the National Environmental Management Act (NEMA), 1998, and.....". And Environmental Impact Assessment Regulations, 2014.

5. DESCRIPTION OF THE AREA FOR DATA ACQUISITION

The area is situated in the southern part of the Karoo Basin and covers ~220 000 km² but may be divided into smaller areas for a proposal (Figure 1).

The area for new data acquisition is sparsely covered by single-fold 2D seismic data acquired in the 1960s and 70s. The vintage seismic data available within the survey area is available only in digital analogue format (scans/vectorised versions of the original seismic profiles) and the quality is generally poor.

Aero-magnetic data over the area were collected during the national aeromagnetic survey for South Africa between the years 1958 and 1997. It was flown in two primary sections – the Karoo survey, done between 1976 and 1982 and covering almost half of the country; and the rest, which was surveyed by various Companies over a period of more than 30 years, starting in 1958 and ending in 1997. There are approximately 18 wells/stratigraphic boreholes, drilled between 1965 and 2022, with an average depth >3000m. All wells intersected the organic-rich shale (likely source rocks) of the Permian Ecca Group.

Results from some of the exploration wells indicate that no oil was observed, but drill stem tests and water analyses indicate the presence of methane, ethane, and small amounts of propane. High-pressure low-volume gas shows were encountered in the southern Karoo Basin and as an example, the well CR 1/68 had methane gas flowing out of fractured Upper Ecca shales.

Further analysis of the organic-rich shales of the Permian Ecca Group indicate that the shales are likely Type I/II source rocks and have TOC values that range from 2 – 16 wt%, but very high maturities (from 1% to > 4% VRO). The area is broadly regarded as frontier in respect of oil and gas exploration. However, based on historical data and information, internal archives, and public data, the area has both oil and gas shows at the surface. Gas occurrences in association with dolerite sills have been observed in the Beaufort Group and in the Ecca Group of rocks, in water wells and deep exploration wells without the presence of dolerite sills.

In terms of infrastructure, the proposed survey area is serviced by a road network consisting of both highways and main roads that are owned and maintained by the South African National Roads Agency. Furthermore, the area is within 100-400km of air and seaports of Cape Town, George (airport), Mossel Bay (seaport), East London (air and seaports), Ngqura (seaport), Port Elizabeth (air and seaports) and Durban (air and seaports). The Ngqura (Coega) Industrial Development Zone (IDZ) is one of the selected sites for the development of a 1000MW Gas to Power Station. The land within the defined area consists of State-owned land, privately owned farmlands, commonage land, and communal land managed by tribal authorities.
