1. PURPOSE

- 1.1. To appoint a service provider to conduct a review of the National Greening Strategy for the Department of Forestry, Fisheries, and the Environment for a period of twelve (12) months.

2. INTRODUCTION AND BACKGROUND

2.1 Introduction

- 2.1.1. The Greening Strategy of the Department of Forestry, Fisheries, and the Environment (DEFF) was developed and approved in 2005. The strategy was reviewed in 2010 to accommodate the massive greening work that was done in preparation for the soccer tournament that was held in South Africa. The department is the lead agent and the custodian of the Forestry function in the country. Part of the function entails the implementation of those initiatives that result in the development of communities using forestry resources. One of the focus areas of community development is to provide policy and strategy guidelines for greening. The function of greening is to support and address issues of environmental concern, food insecurity, and poverty reduction. This is done in line with the principles of the National Forest Act, 1998, Section 32 which provides for community forestry, and the White Paper on Sustainable Forest Development, 1996, which realises that forestry, is not only about managing forests but also about the relationship between forests as a resource and the people living in and around forests. Forests in this instance will include trees outside forests and in particular trees in settlement areas.
- 2.1.2. It is now a known fact that the world in general is starting to feel the effects of global warming and in particular climate change. This phenomenon is an environmental threat resulting from emissions of greenhouse gases in the atmosphere. It is now crucial to face this phenomenon head-on by adopting mitigation strategies and adapting our actions towards it. These climate changes may have significant effects on various sectors globally. Tree planting (or greening) forms the basis for the departmental greening programme, and it is one of the mitigating factors that are recommended for the slowing down of this environmental threat. It is for this reason that the Department is pursuing the Ten Million Trees Programme. The Ten Million Trees Programme aims to emphasise the value of trees and forests in the lives of South Africans. This will not only bring beauty into the households but also promote the importance of trees and benefits for the environment through the provision of oxygen. Other benefits include stormwater control, windbreaking, provision of shade and shelter, and increased biodiversity.
- 2.1.3. Furthermore, activities will include the greening of Low-Income Housing areas with the sole aim of creating sustainable settlements, addressing household food security by planting fruit trees into homestead gardens, and creating employment opportunities, especially for the youth through the Expanded Public Works Programme. It is acknowledged that the tree-planting programmes will have to (rely on) include other supporting programmes such as environmental education to inform and educate society in general of the importance of trees within the environment and their role in mitigating environmental threats.

2.2 Background

- 2.2.1. The Forestry Management Branch will lead the review strategy and will consult its strategic partners some of whom have expressed their wish for the strategy to be reviewed to gather inputs into the new strategy. The Branch will also work with other branches in the Department such as Chemical and Waste, Air quality, Biodiversity and Conservation, and Environmental Programmes.
- 2.2.2. The Forestry Management Branch will also consult the National Greening Forum whereby key role-players such as Metropolitan Municipalities, Non-Government Organisations, and the corporate sector present their plans and reports. The forum will help with the monitoring and evaluation of the strategy implementation.

3. OBJECTIVES

- 3.1 The specific objectives for the review of the National Greening Strategy are:
 - 3.1.1 Analyse and identify gaps in the current greening strategy.
 - 3.1.2 Identify existing Greening Strategy documents regionally and internationally that can inform the review of the South African Greening Strategy.
 - 3.1.3 Identify and analyse the potential information that can be used to inform the review process and content of the strategy. Develop broad but key strategy objectives.
 - 3.1.4 Compile critical information sources that will be used as base information to develop the first draft or working document for consultation.
 - 3.1.5 Identify possible sector partnerships (Public, Private, and Non-Governmental) to add value to the development and implementation of the strategy.
 - 3.1.6 Formulate a new Strategy and development efforts geared towards using the greening interventions to meet the environmental, social, and economic needs of the people and improve the people's welfare and the green assets.

4. SCOPE AND EXTENT OF WORK

- 4.1. The service provider must be able to cover the following:
 - 4.1.1. Hold an Inception meeting and develop a report.
 - 4.1.2. Do a literature review and develop a discussion document or Key Issues Paper based on the literature review and the current strategy. The review also takes a historical account of greening or urban forestry practices in the country, the region, and the global perspective.

- 4.1.3. The service provider must use the document or the Key Issues Paper as the basis for consultation with DFFE and Key external stakeholders. The consultation must be through internal workshops and external stakeholder workshops. A total of four consultative workshops comprising two workshops for DFFE and two for external stakeholders are recommended (the latter can be done virtually) Participation of all stakeholders including government, private sector, non-governmental organizations (NGOs), and donors is a requirement.
- 4.1.4. The final consultative workshop with DFFE internal staff members can also be a virtual workshop. This will be a consolidation workshop to gather consensus on the strategy document.
- 4.1.5. It is important the service provider further do the following:
- Identify potential support from international research and development organizations e.g., World Urban Parks, FAO, World Bank, etc.
 - Identify and integrate within the strategy key/main implementation focus areas.
 - Highlight the role of trees in carbon sequestration, air quality, stormwater control, food security, agroforestry, and other aesthetics.
