Definition – Technical assistance (advice/support) can be described as all initial business planning elements needed to develop a farm business plan that a farmer can use to leverage further support and investment for the implementation of the plan. The UTA will not provide support for implementation elements following approval and financing of the business plan.

PURPOSE

The Unit for Technical Assistance (hereafter referred to as the Unit) is a support facility for the client of the Western Cape Department of Agriculture to co-ordinate internal and external expertise for project appraisal and enterprise planning at various stages of the programme and project management life cycles requiring technical input. The Unit is a formally established structure hosted by Casidra. The Western Cape Department of Agriculture will establish this unit within the Farmer Support and Development Programme under the auspices of Casidra, as an implementing agent which will be responsible for the:

- co- ordination,
- management and
- Secretariat functions related to the unit.

Through a network of service providers, the unit will strategically consider, consult and make recommendations in terms of the business plan development, project implementation plans, business / farm evaluations and to inform allocation of project funds to enable new and existing farming enterprises to achieve sustainability. Emphasis will be on delivering quality services in line with the Batho Pele principles using Departmental and external expertise from the private sector to deliver an effective service.

GENERAL RESPONSIBILITIES AND FUNCTIONS OF THE UNIT

The responsibilities of the unit are set out as follows:

- The unit will ensure that the planning of recommended projects comply with the applicable selection criteria and that the allocations are prioritised in terms of the key deliverables of the Department.
