1. BACKGROUND

The Electoral Commission of South Africa (IEC) is a permanent body established in terms of Chapter 9 of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa and the Electoral Commission Act 51 of 1996. It is responsible for managing and administering all elections and promoting and safeguarding democracy in South Africa. Although publicly funded and accountable to Parliament, the IEC is independent of government.

In terms of Section 190 of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa (Act 108 of 1996), the IEC mandate is to:

- 1.1 Manage elections of national, provincial and municipal legislative bodies;
- 1.2 Ensure that those elections are free and fair;
- 1.3 Declare the results of those elections; and
- 1.4 Compile and maintain a voters' roll.

Duties of the Electoral Commission as stated in Section 5 of the Electoral Commission Act require that we:

- 1.5 Compile and maintain a register of parties;
- 1.6 Undertake and promote research into electoral matters;
- 1.7 Develop and promote the development of electoral expertise and technology in all spheres of government;
- 1.8 Continuously review electoral laws and proposed electoral laws, and make recommendations;
- 1.9 Promote voter education;
- 1.10 Declare the results of elections for national, provincial and municipal legislative bodies within seven days; and
- 1.11 Appoint appropriate public administrations in any sphere of government to conduct elections when necessary.

High voter participation in elections is one of the main indicators of a healthy democracy. There are approximately 27,6 million voters on the National Common Voters' Roll with a possible 12 million people in South Africa still eligible to register as voters. Encouraging these people to register and to vote in national, provincial, local and municipal by-elections is a core function of the Electoral Commission.

In fulfilment of its mandate, the Electoral Commission has a range of key stakeholder groupings that need to be consulted, briefed and informed about electoral activities and processes. Election management bodies face the formidable challenge of ensuring that all stakeholders have trust in the electoral process and perceive and experience them as credible institutions.

The Electoral Commission's stakeholders include locally affected communities or individuals and their formal and informal representatives, national or local government authorities, politicians, religious leaders, civil society organisations (CSOs) (an umbrella term for nongovernmental, non-profit organisations, community-based organisations and faith-based organisations), groups with special interests and needs, the academic community, the private sector, business, other Chapter 9 institutions, traditional leadership structures, statutory bodies, the media, state departments and organised labour. The Electoral Commission's key audiences include above mentioned stakeholders and the youth, overseas voters, non-registered South Africans, political parties and registered voters.
