The following Questions were raised at the site meeting and were answered as follows:

Question 1: SABS is not accredited anymore and are not testing and approving new items.

Answer: SABS is still accredited to certify (approve) various products including PPE – SABS. The schedule may be accessed from the SANAS website.

Question 2: SABS certification is required for all the items to be supplied but some of the items are not SABS accredited.

Answer: The document refers to SABS approval that is required for all items however every item has its own specification and requirement as this is a rate based tender, and items will be evaluated individually.
