INTRODUCTION

The modernisation of government systems is based on principles of simplification, standardisation and automation of as many business processes as possible. The Office of the Chief Procurement Officer (OCPO) embarked on a project to establish a centralised Procurement Data Information Centre through the establishment of standardized classification/codification standards and the establishment of a centralised view on procurement spend data through the interim mining of unstructured data from various source systems, enriching the data to make the original source data meaningful for analysis and finally the visualization of the structured data in a dashboard format for centralised, integrated and/or automated management reporting.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The National Treasury is responsible for managing South Africa's national government finances. Supporting efficient and sustainable public financial management is fundamental to the promotion of economic development, good governance, social progress and a raising standard of living for all South Africans. The Constitution of the Republic (Chapter 13) mandates the National Treasury to ensure transparency, accountability and sound financial controls in the management of public finances.

The National Treasury's legislative mandate is also described in the Public Finance Management Act (Chapter 2). The National Treasury is mandated to promote government's fiscal policy framework; to coordinate macroeconomic policy and intergovernmental financial relations; to manage the budget preparation process; to facilitate the Division of Revenue Act, which provides for an equitable distribution of nationally raised revenue between national, provincial and local government; and to monitor the implementation of provincial budgets.

Although the current legislation prescribes what data needs to be provided to who and when, getting organs of state to comply remains a challenge. Some of the contributing factors for non-compliance is the lack of data standards, duplication of data and systems, shortage of skilled SCM practitioners, as well as interpretation of legislation. More than 28 procurement systems are used across government, each aiming at enabling the procurement processes legislated by the relevant national or provincial treasuries.

In order for Government to fulfil its social responsibility in terms of the channelling of procurement spend to designated groups and the unlocking of economies of scale in specific areas of government spend, the information silos that have formed across all spheres of government have to be broken down through the normalization and enrichment of procurement spend information on a transactional level in order to perform spend and trend analyses on a standardized and consistent set of data.

APPOINTMENT OF A SERVICE PROVIDER FOR THE ENHANCEMENT, MAINTENANCE AND SUPPORT OF THE PROCUREMENT DATA ANALYSIS AND VISUALISATION SOFTWARE AND DATA WAREHOUSE OF THE OFFICE OF THE CHIEF PROCUREMENT OFFICER FOR A PERIOD OF TWO (2) YEARS

The OCPO has made huge strides towards breaching the various gaps in the procurement information divide through the introduction of the Central Supplier Database, e-Tender portal, Standardised procurement commodities, Spend data mapping exercises etc. All these initiatives contribute towards the primary goal which is the seamless flow of electronic information between distributed procurement applications with a standardized meta-data structure that serves as an extraction filter for meaningful procurement spend information across all spheres of government that can be analysed and applied towards achieving government's social objectives as well as serving as a platform from which various innovative procurement reform initiatives will be launched.

The OCPO designed and build a Data Warehouse that serves as common reference data repository with the necessary capability to accurately identify and link fragmented data records across various data sources, normalise the fragmented data and produce standardised information in a dashboard format via various Business Intelligence tools.

The OCPO is currently rendering Business Intelligence services from the Data Warehouse and accompanying Business Intelligence tools to all provincial treasuries and some national departments, state owned entities, local government entities, National Treasury Transversal contracting as well as Strategic Sourcing, etc.

Because of the OCPO's data mining and analytics capability we can now enable government executives to know radically more about their business, their suppliers, their employees, compliance with procurement requirements and even complex economic dynamics in their respective environments. Most of these CFOs, Supply chain functionaries and Heads of departments only tap into a fraction of the data available to them to gain new insights and inform strategic decision-making.

The architecture of the current OCPO BI solution comprises the following:

- Application Server (PowerBI)
- Data Staging and Landing area: SQL Server for the raw data from all the systems where the data is put into logical data entities
- Data Warehouse (SQL and Visual Studio): From the Staging environment, the data is transferred and transformed into dimensions and facts. These are the cubes that can be interrogated with business and process related queries, and depending on the composition of these cubes, answers are extracted to satisfy the business requirements.

- ETL framework and processes for data extraction, that imports +- 1600 flat files from the BAS Auditor General data dumps with exception handling that that doesn't stall the process. The integrated list transforms data from flat files into a normalised data structure that consists of the following entities: General Ledger, General Journal, General Receipts, Expenditure Register, Trial Balance, Disbursements, Non-disbursed payments, Entities (along with CSD replication), Bank Reconciliation, Security Management, Period Opening & Closing, Debt Transaction, Interface Exception, Procurement Integration, User Activity and Payment Cycles.
- ETL framework and processes for importing supplier data from the Central Supplier Database.
- ETL framework and processes for importing data from LOGIS.
- ETL framework and processes for importing data from e-Tenders.
- Uploading functionality for importing data from various State Owned- and Local entities in Excel format.

The following static and dynamic analyses/reports and services are made available to the OCPO user base on the visualization platform, on departmental-, provincial-, national- and consolidated government level:

- PPPFA Spend demographics
 - Black owned companies
 - Woman owned companies
 - Military veteran owned companies
 - Youth owned companies
 - Disabled owned companies
 - Rural or Township based companies
- Spend Analysis per BEE Level

- LOGIS/BAS combined spend analysis
- Top supplier and commodity spend analysis
