Terms of Reference

Terms of Reference

Sourcing of a Service Provider that would develop the risk exposure limit setting models for the Development Bank of Southern Africa.

1 Purpose

The purpose of this document is to detail the Terms of Reference for the appointment of a service provider by the DBSA.

The service provider shall assist the Bank with developing the risk exposure limit models i.e. sector, single obligor, country and specific asset class limits that will support our strategic objectives, facilitate informed decision making and ultimately strengthen our organization's resilience in the face of global uncertainties and best practice requirements. The DBSA will appoint a service provider with the highest combined score on price and preference.

2 Background

The Development Bank of Southern Africa Limited, a development funding institution, reconstituted and incorporated in terms of section 2 of the Development Bank of Southern Africa Act, 1997 ("DBSA"). The DBSA is a state-owned development finance institution ("DFI") that leads and champions national and regional infrastructure integration and development. The organization promotes economic growth and development in South Africa and Africa and has prioritized water, energy, transport and ICT as its key focus areas.

The DBSA also supports the South African government in leveraging skills and capabilities to accelerate the implementation of infrastructure programmes in the key priority sectors of education, health and housing, as well as various municipal infrastructure programmes. In its role as an implementing agent, DBSA actively procures, appoints and manages the construction and maintenance of infrastructure across South Africa.

The DBSA works across the infrastructure value chain from planning, preparation, and financing to implementation, delivery and maintenance throughout the African continent.

For more information on the DBSA, please visit our website at www.dbsa.org.

In an increasingly complex and interconnected global economy, development finance institutions (DFIs) play a crucial role in fostering sustainable economic growth and social development. As we strive to enhance our decision-making capabilities, it is imperative to effectively manage and assess our exposure to various risks, including country, single obligor, sector and specific asset class exposures.

To this end, we are seeking assistance from a service provider in the development of comprehensive risk exposure limit models for credit and equity investment risks. These models will provide a structured framework for evaluating our risk exposures, ensuring that our investment decisions align with our strategic objectives while maintaining financial stability and compliance with regulatory requirements.

The development of robust risk exposure limit models is essential in enabling us to quantify and monitor our risks in a systematic manner, allowing for informed decision-making that supports our mission of promoting sustainable development. These models will also facilitate better resource allocation by identifying potential risks associated with individual countries, obligors, sectors and asset classes (specifically trade finance), thus enhancing our portfolio management strategies.

Our objective is to collaborate with experts who can provide innovative solutions tailored to our unique operational context. By leveraging advanced analytical techniques and industry best practices, we aim to enhance our risk assessment capabilities and drive more effective decision-making processes.

Through this initiative, we are committed to strengthening our resilience against potential risks, ensuring that we continue to fulfill our mandate of supporting economic development while safeguarding our financial sustainability. We look forward to engaging with a potential partner who will share our vision and can contribute to this critical endeavor.

3 Scope of work

The service provider will be required to:

Develop risk exposure limits-setting model(s) and/or framework(s) that will be used to set credit risk and equity investment risk limits on sector, country single obligor and specific asset class exposures taking into consideration key risk indicators. The key requirements shall include the following:

- 3.1.1 Data requirements: Assess the types of data needed for the models, including quantitative metrics (e.g., financial ratios and macroeconomic indicators) and qualitative factors (e.g., governance assessments). This step will also involve a review of existing data sources within the institution, such as internal credit assessments, internal and external databases.
- 3.1.2 Regulatory framework: Review relevant regulatory guidelines and internal policies that govern risk exposure limits. This ensures that the model aligns with compliance requirements and institutional risk appetite.

Model development

3.1.3 Develop the country exposure limit model. This process shall entail:

- 3.1.3.1 establishing clear quantitative and qualitative key risk indicators i.e., country ratings, economic and geopolitical indicators, ii) country affordability metrics that will accurately capture sovereign and non-sovereign risk exposures for the countries in which the Bank is exposed and incorporating geopolitical risks such as political stability and legal frameworks to provide a comprehensive view of country specific risks. The model should also take into consideration historical default rates and recovery rates from various countries.
- 3.1.3.2 Considering current and potential pipeline deal information to be used as estimates of the total potential future exposures, with buffers made for exchange rate differentials and capital allocation constraints, enabling a better setting of the risk appetite.
- 3.1.3.3 Establishing a central point/system where data relevant to country risk, including economic indicators, political stability indices and social metrics, can be obtained and used in the country limit setting model. Using accurate and reliable data sources that are representative of the Bank's underlying portfolios, assets, geography, and customer bases.
- 3.1.3.4 Establishing clear country model outputs that accurately reflect risk estimate and capture current and future portfolio risk exposures pre and post risk mitigants and resultant risk appetite in an easily reportable format.

3.1.4 Develop the single obligor/counterparty exposure limit model: This model shall focus on assessing the credit and equity investment risk associated with individual obligors/counterparties. The model shall consider individual obligor and industry specific risks, obligor concentration, regional capital allocation constraints and historical performance metrics to establish creditworthiness thresholds.

3.1.5 Develop the sector exposure limit model for the mandated sectors in which the bank is exposed to. In developing this model, a thorough analysis of the various sectors should be conducted, evaluating factors such as market trends, regulatory changes, and economic cycles. This will enable identification of sectors that pose higher risks and allow for better diversification of the portfolio. This model should quantify sectorial risk exposure and establish limits based on institutions overall risk appetite.

- 3.1.6 Develop an asset class/product exposure limit model for Trade Financing. This model shall include establishing clear quantitative and qualitative model inputs including techniques to be applied in quantifying limits based on the DBSA's overall risk appetite. In developing this model, analysis undertaken should include specific treatment of various trade financing transaction types and the relevant regulatory treatment for valuing or modelling such products.

Data integration and Analysis

- 3.1.7 Data Sources Identification: Identify and compile a comprehensive list of relevant data sources, including internal reports, external databases (e.g., World Bank, IMF etc) and market research studies. Collaborate with relevant teams to ensure access to necessary data for model inputs.
- 3.1.8 Data cleansing and normalization: Implementing data quality assurance measures to cleanse and normalize the data, ensuring consistency and reliability in the modeling process. This step is critical to eliminate biases and inaccuracies that could impact model outputs.
- 3.1.9 Statistical techniques: Apply advanced statistical methods to analyse the integrated data. This will enable the development of precise risk parameters and thresholds for each model, ensuring that the outputs are both actionable and relevant.

Model Validation and Testing

- 3.1.10 Rigorous testing: Conducting a series of validation tests to assess the accuracy and reliability of the models. This should include sensitivity analysis to evaluate how changes in input variables affect model outcomes.

- 3.1.11 Back-Testing: Implementing back testing procedures to compare model predictions with actual outcomes. To identify any discrepancies and possibly assist with refinement of model parameters.

Documentation and Reporting

- 3.1.12 Comprehensive Documentation: Preparation of detailed documentation for each model, outlining the methodologies used, the data sources, assumptions made, calculations and any limitations observed. This documentation will serve as a reference for internal stakeholders.
- 3.1.13 User Guides: Develop user-friendly guides that outline how to use the models effectively, including step-by-step instructions and best practices. This will facilitate smoother adoption and integration into daily operations.
- 3.1.14 Detailed Reporting: Create reports summarizing the findings from the model development process, including insights gained, risk assessments, and recommendations for enhancing risk management practices.

Training and Capacity Building

- 3.1.15 Training Sessions: Organize interactive training sessions for relevant staff to familiarize them with the models, their applications, and underlying methodologies. These sessions should include practical exercises and case studies to reinforce learning.
- 3.1.16 Post implementation Support for a year: Establish a support mechanism or maintenance plan to address questions and challenges that arise post-implementation. This may include creating a dedicated helpdesk or a resource portal for staff to access additional material.

Implementation Support

- 3.1.17 Integration into Decision-Making: Collaborate with internal teams to incorporate the models into existing risk management frameworks and decision-making processes. This may involve adapting workflows and reporting structures to ensure that model outputs are utilized effectively.

3.1.18 Continuous Monitoring: Provide recommendations for establishing a system for continuous monitoring of model performance. This includes setting up key performance indicators (KPIs) to evaluate model effectiveness over time.
