2. SCOPE OF WORK

In summary, the scope of the works is as follows:

- Conducting a detailed assessment and geotechnical site investigation of rock slope stability and rehabilitation of deteriorating rockfall protection along the route (KM 36 to KM 40).
- Provide detailed design recommendations for the developing slip failure along the route (KM 36 to KM 40).

2.1. Phase 1 - Preliminary Site Visit and Appraisal

Drive / Walk-over of the affected rockfall protection, rock slope and slip areas to obtain initial information to facilitate the detailed geotechnical investigation and refine the geotechnical cost estimate (if necessary). Delineation of slope failure/slip extent laterally and in cross-section to validate existing data.

2.2. Phase 2 - Geotechnical Investigation

The recommended geotechnical investigation is expected to comprise the following:

- Borehole drilling (min 3No.) to obtain the subsoil profile, soil samples and bedrock levels at depth.
- Test-pitting (4-6No.) by an excavator in accessible area on the embankment to obtain the subsoil profile, soil samples and bedrock levels at depth.
- DCP testing (+6-8No.) to provide the subsoil consistency and infill information, i.e., an indication of bedrock levels.
- The materials will be sampled for laboratory testing and tested at a SANAS-accredited laboratory. Undisturbed samples for Triaxial tests / Shear box / Atterberg Limits testing will be taken where possible to provide residual shear strength parameters of the failure zone materials.

- The fieldwork supervision/logging/sampling is to be performed by an experienced engineering geologist who is a registered Pr. Sci. Nat.

The geotechnical investigation shall be carried out in accordance with, but not limited to, the following Geotechnical engineering site investigation guidelines:

- The KwaZulu Natal Department of Transport Materials Investigation Specification.
- The South African Pavement Engineering Manual (SAPEM) Chapter 7: Geotechnical Investigations and Design Considerations,
- Dolomitic land Investigation Guidelines (SAICE),
- SAICE Lateral Support Guidelines.
- SAICE Site Investigation Code of Practice provide some guidance.
- SANS 3001: Civil Engineering Test Methods:

2.3. Phase 3 - Stability Analysis to Determine Suitable Rehabilitation Design Options

- Geological Cross-sections are to be produced from the above and used to carry out two-dimensional geotechnical modelling and stability analyses to determine the failure mechanism/cause/geometry and subsequently allow the rehabilitation design.
- The stability analysis is to be performed using Geotechnical Engineering Design Software by an experienced geotechnical consultant who has specialised in slope stability analysis for some 10 years and rehabilitated numerous slopes. The materials' shear strength parameters are to be determined from a combination of Triaxial tests, shear box testing, back-analysis.
- The stability analysis of suitable rehabilitation design options must be performed to determine/optimize the most suitable solution. The results of the analyses and findings of the geotechnical investigation, in particular the Slip failure geology, including geotechnical cross sections and relevant geotechnical parameters, must be summarised in a brief report.
- The slope stability design optioneering and options analysis is to be performed by the Geotechnical engineering professional (professionally registered with ECSA, i.e., Pr. Eng. or Pr. Tech. Eng.).

2.4. Deliverables

- Modus Operandi (i.e., a detailed report entailing the method of site investigation, type of tests to be conducted, their respective locations, etc.) for the proposed geotechnical site investigation.
- A detailed, comprehensive Geotechnical Investigation Report in PDF format presenting findings and observations from site investigation, laboratory testing, interpretation and design recommendation and possible geotechnical solutions (minimum 2) thereof. The report is to be reviewed and signed by the Geotechnical engineering professional (professionally registered with ECSA, i.e., Pr. Eng. or Pr. Tech. Eng.).
- The final factor of safety must be illustrated in the final design.

2.5. Traffic Accommodation

The persons responsible for undertaking the materials investigation shall provide, erect and maintain the necessary traffic-control devices, road signs, traffic cones, flagmen and speed controls (hereinafter referred to as traffic-control devices) in accordance with these special provisions and as appropriate in terms of the SARTSM and remove them when no longer required. It shall be incumbent upon the persons responsible for supervising traffic accommodation to see to it that the abovementioned traffic-control devices are present where required at all times and are in good condition.

The safety of the travelling public is of utmost importance, and every effort shall be made to ensure that all traffic control devices are maintained and effective and that courtesy is extended to the travelling public at all times. All workmen within the work area shall wear appropriate safety apparel and all vehicles shall be equipped with rotating beacons.

The type of construction, spacing and placement of traffic-control devices shall be in accordance with the appropriate short term closure layout, as shown in SARTSM. The recommended arrangements of the traffic control devices shall not be departed from without prior approval of the Engineer.

The details shown for spacing and placement of traffic-control facilities may, however, be revised at the discretion of the Engineer where deemed necessary to accommodate local site geometry and traffic conditions.

All temporary road signs shall be mounted on portable supports for the easy moving of signs to temporary positions. The only permitted method of ballasting the sign supports shall consist of durable sandbags filled with sand of adequate mass to prevent signs from being blown over by wind. The cost of the sandbags shall be included in the tendered rates.

Traffic cones manufactured in a fluorescent red-orange or red plastic material only may be used at short term lane deviations. Cones used on all deviations shall be 750 mm high.

Traffic will be assessed and approved by the Cost Centre Manager.

3. PRELIMINARY AND GENERAL

Only SANAS accredited, commercial laboratories will be allowed to undertake this materials investigation. The laboratory shall supply all labour, materials, tools, machinery, equipment, lighting, as well as all that is necessary or may be necessary for the proper completion of the work and services in connection with the proposed testing.

The laboratory may employ sub-contractors, skilled and semi-skilled or unskilled labour to carry out the work according to the nature of requirements, but in conformity with the recognised current testing practice.

The laboratory must show proof of possession of drilling equipment by way of the lease agreement or ownership documents.

No excavation shall be undertaken before it is verified that the excavation will not damage any services.

Schedules of test pit locations will be made available to the laboratory. These may be subject to amendment on site.

The excavation of the test pit shall be 1 m x 1 m minimum in area, to the total depth of 1 m. The excavation shall be carried out with due care, so that each type of material encountered in the test pit can be sampled separately. The excavation shall be carried out neatly; the sides of the test pit shall be vertical.

The excavation should always be done as delicately as possible to ensure that only one layer at a time is removed and stockpiled separately without any contamination of material from other layers. The behaviour of the material in each layer during the breaking up process should be carefully observed as it gives vital information as to the consistency and "structure" of the layer e.g. a stabilised layer that remains in hard chunks during the excavation process may possibly be difficult to rework in-situ utilising conventional construction equipment. The excavation shall be completed in 1 day and shall not be carried out over 2 or more days.

If required, it is preferable to carry out any DCP testing prior to commencing with any excavations. If the pavement consists of relatively thick asphalt and/or strongly cemented layers, it may be necessary to drill through these layers or carefully removing them prior to commencing with the DCP test. The start position shall be measured relevant to the existing road surface.

The maximum depth of penetration of the DCP probe shall be 1000 mm. All asphalt surfacing / base and cemented layers shall be drilled prior to commencing the DCP. A refusal shall be recorded if the rate of penetration is less than 1 mm after 5 sets of 5 blows. If the refusal occurs within the top 400 mm of the pavement then drilling shall continue until the drill can penetrate easily into the pavement layers. If drilling is still difficult at 600 mm, it shall be stopped and a refusal recorded. If rock is encountered during drilling, then drilling shall be stopped and a refusal recorded with a note of rock being encountered.

All DCP holes shall be filled with river sand or similar, A3 quality, and plugged with asphalt.

The DCP field measurements are to be analysed by the Service Provider using an approved DCP analysis computer program (WinDCP 51" or similar). As a minimum, the following information:

- Test position co-ordinates
- The DCP curve
- Layer strength diagram
- Normalised Emod curve
- Emod curve

Backfilling of the test pit excavations shall be carried out using the following as a minimum;

- Material of minimum G5 quality, compacted to minimum 95% MDD, to a level of 225 mm below the road surface.
- A base layer of G2 quality material, stabilised with 3% cement, compacted to minimum 97% MDD, to a level 25mm below the road surface.
- Tack coat of 0.5 l/m² using 30% spray grade emulsion.
- Surfacing consisting of continuously graded cold-mix from an approved source, well compacted, to match the level of the existing surfacing.

No work shall be undertaken if there is a possibility of it raining during the excavation and sampling. If for some reason it does rain during the excavation and sampling, the samples shall be discarded and the excavation shall be redone in the immediate vicinity at the laboratory's cost. No additional payment shall be made. Repairs to any subsidence of the excavation shall also be to the laboratory cost.

The laboratory will be responsible for the safe accommodation of traffic and shall clearly identify their proposed accommodation of traffic arrangements. All traffic accommodation measures shall conform to the requirements specified in the South African Road Traffic Signs Manual: Volume 2: Chapter 13,

The Occupational Health and Safety requirements as contained in Act No 85 of 1993 (as amended) shall apply for this works. This shall be read in conjunction with the Regulations as published in the Government Gazette No 7721 of 18 July as well as the General Safety Regulations published in the Government Notice No R1031 of 30 May 1986, as amended. It will be required of the laboratory to submit an Occupational Health and Safety Plan for the safe execution of the soils investigation.

The laboratory shall be required to submit to the Engineer the Risk Assessment Quality Control Document before any work commence.
