CERTIFICATE OF INDEPENDENT BID DETERMINATION

- 1 This Standard Bidding Document (SBD) must form part of all bids¹ invited.
- 2 Section 4 (1) (b) (iii) of the Competition Act No. 89 of 1998, as amended, prohibits an agreement between, or concerted practice by, firms, or a decision by an association of firms, if it is between parties in a horizontal relationship and if it involves collusive bidding (or bid rigging).² Collusive bidding is a pe se prohibition meaning that it cannot be justified under any grounds.
- 3 Treasury Regulation 16A9 prescribes that accounting officers and accounting authorities must take all reasonable steps to prevent abuse of the supply chain management system and authorizes accounting officers and accounting authorities to:
 - a. disregard the bid of any bidder if that bidder, or any of its directors have abused the institution's supply chain management system and or committed fraud or any other improper conduct in relation to such system.
 - b. cancel a contract awarded to a supplier of goods and services if the supplier committed any corrupt or fraudulent act during the bidding process or the execution of that contract.
- 4 This SBD serves as a certificate of declaration that would be used by institutions to ensure that, when bids are considered, reasonable steps are taken to prevent any form of bid-rigging.
- 5 In order to give effect to the above, the attached Certificate of Bid Determination (SBD 9) must be completed and submitted with the bid:

² Bid rigging (or collusive bidding) occurs when businesses, that would otherwise be expected to compete, secretly conspire to raise prices or lower the quality of goods and / or services for purchasers who wish to acquire goods and / or services through a bidding process. Bid rigging is, therefore, an agreement between competitors not to compete.

6. The bidder has arrived at the accompanying bid independently from, and without consultation, communication, agreement or arrangement with any competitor. However communication between partners in a joint venture or consortium³ will not be construed as collusive bidding.

9. The terms of the accompanying bid have not been, and will not be, disclosed by the bidder, directly or indirectly, to any competitor, prior to the date and time of the official bid opening or of the awarding of the contract.

³ Joint venture or Consortium means an association of persons for the purpose of combining their expertise, property, capital, efforts, skill and knowledge in an activity for the execution of a contract.

ANNEXURE A		18

1. PURPOSE

To appoint a service provider to develop a new multi term strategy to inform the future work of the Environmental Management Inspectorate and to undertake a Work Study of the compliance and enforcement structures across the mandate of the Department.

2. INTRODUCTION AND BACKGROUND

A National Environmental Compliance and Enforcement Strategy was developed in 2014 as a short to medium term (5 year) compliance and enforcement strategy to inform the work of Environmental Management Inspectors ("EMIs"). The NECES was commissioned in recognition of the fact that compliance and enforcement is essential to the effective implementation of environmental legislation but recognised at the same time the limited capacity that is available to EMI institutions to achieve this objective.

The development of the NECES was therefore an initiative to gain an understanding of how the Inspectorate could effectively use its limited available resources to execute compliance and enforcement interventions in order to achieve the best possible outcomes.

The NECES further considered the concerns that were raised in respect of the lack of consistency and predictability regarding the EMI institutions approach to compliance and enforcement. In the past indications were that the EMIs approach was not sufficiently clear, had been too reactive and lacked strategic purpose. As such, much of the EMI's compliance and enforcement activities were considered to be overly focused on known licensed premises. One of the measures that was proposed in the NECES to overcome this challenge was a move towards a proactive, evidence and risk-based model.

The NECES essentially proposed a framework for an effective and comprehensive compliance monitoring and enforcement strategy for EMIs. The work undertaken to develop the NECES took into account the entire mandate of the EMI across all environmental media (although it excluded the work of the Department of Mineral Resources, the Department of Water and Sanitation and EMIs in the Local Authorities) and inter alia included the following:

- A situational analysis of the environmental compliance and enforcement system at that time, including an assessment of the impact that the work of the EMI is currently having on the regulated sector and the strengths and weaknesses of the system;
- A breakdown of the relevant structures within each EMI institution that deals with environmental compliance and enforcement, including available resources and capacity;
- A methodology to determine how many EMIs are required in order to provide for the effective compliance and enforcement of NEMA and all the SEMAs;
- Development of a tool designed to identify the priorities for proactive as well as reactive compliance monitoring and enforcement work at a national and provincial level and assistance with the identification of these priorities over the timeframe of the strategy.

The NECES was structured around the different elements that are required to deliver an effective compliance and enforcement system, namely

- Legislation and licensing
- Compliance promotion
- Compliance monitoring

- Enforcement
- Information management and research
- Institutional arrangements.

Each element is dealt with in its own chapter. After explaining the underlying concepts and approaches in developing the strategy in Chapter 2, Chapters 3 to 6 set out the approaches that will be adopted for the core elements of the compliance monitoring and enforcement cycle -

- Chapter 3: looks at legislation and licensing and focuses on mechanisms for improving the foundation provided by environmental legislation; the EMI's involvement in and knowledge of law reform and the enforceability of licences.
- Chapter 4: discusses compliance promotion and explores a set of tools and approaches that the EMI's can use to encourage voluntary compliance amongst people who are willing to comply, thus reducing the need for unnecessary monitoring and enforcement actions and allowing for a better use of resources and effort where it is needed most.
- Chapter 5: considers the challenges facing the EMI's in undertaking the large number of legislative requirements that need to be monitored. The compliance monitoring objectives are intended to ensure that the EMI's detect as much non-compliance as possible by adopting a prioritisation tool and expanding the current approach and increasing the amount of monitoring that takes place.
- Chapter 6: deals with enforcement and sets out a number of approaches that will be adopted to maximise the reach and impact of EMI enforcement activities.

In addition to this core focus, the document provides a discussion of the contextual underpinning that is necessary to read and implement the strategy. In this regard –

- Chapter 8: discusses the information management and research needs of the EMI network that are essential for providing a basis to assist the EMI's in becoming more strategic and effective in their work and for the analysis that is required to implement prioritised and targeted compliance and enforcement work.
- Chapter 9: considers a range of institutional matters that can assist or undermine implementation of the strategy, including the structure and resourcing of EMI institutions; issues relating to retention and career path development; training of EMI's and the development of a system for continuous learning.

In order to action the recommendations contained in the NECES an implementation plan was developed within the then Department of Environmental Affairs (DEA) with the key deliverables integrated into all of the affected Compliance and Enforcement Directorate's Annual Performance Plans within the DEA as it was then known.

3. OBJECTIVES

The overall objective of this project is to:

This assessment must involve consultation with the Outcome 10 secretariat.);

4.3.2.2 An impact management methodology or calculator that provides criteria in terms of which the impact of the work of the EMI will be assessed;
