SECTION 4: TERMS OF REFERENCE

1. INTRODUCTION

The National Nuclear Regulator (NNR) is a public entity which is established and governed in terms of Section 3 of the National Nuclear Regulator Act, 1999 (Act No. 47 of 1999) to provide for the protection of persons, property, and the environment against nuclear damage through the establishment of safety standards and regulatory practices.

2. PURPOSE

The NNR is seeking to appoint a service provider with the relevant expertise to provide Information and Communication Technology (ICT) and general maintenance and support of the Online Radiation Monitoring System (ORMS).

3. BACKGROUND

3.1. The National Nuclear Regulator (NNR) has installed and commissioned an online radiation monitoring system (ORMS) in and around nuclear facilities in South Africa (i.e. Necsa and Koeberg Nuclear Power Station) with the capability to detect and monitor in real-time the background radiation and elevated levels in case of an emergency at the facilities. The ORMS consist of nineteen (19) monitoring stations (see Figure 1 below) with 11 installed around Necsa in Hartbeespoort and 8 around Koeberg Nuclear Power Station in Cape Town. The monitoring stations consist of the following hardware and web application:

- a) Geiger Muller Tube (GMT) for gamma radiation dose rate measurements.
- b) Sodium Iodide (NaI) Crystal and multi-channel analyser (MCA) for the purpose of identification of radionuclides in some stations.
- c) Weather sensors which provide weather data such as temperature, wind speed, humidity and direction.
- d) Solar panel, pair of batteries, solar charge converter for power supply of each installed station at all times.
- e) 4G Communications for transmitting data from the remote stations to the NNR server; and

f) Kapua server and User Experience to process and visualise the data received from the gateways.

3.2. The ORMS is an ICT and radiological technology-based system, which is periodically required to be updated with new developments and must always be available and functional.

Non-Restricted

4. SCOPE OF WORK

The scope of maintenance work of the ORMS will focus on the ICT maintenance support, radiological and general maintenance activities.

4.1 ICT Maintenance Support

As described in sections 4.1.1 to 4.1.3 below, the ICT maintenance support program has been broken into 3 tiers.

- Tier 1 for day-to-day and annual inspections activities,
- Tier 2 for a periodic system diagnosis and software upgrades, and
- Tier 3 will only be applicable for system recovery in case failure.

The service provider capabilities must satisfy the 3 Tiers, however, services for Tier 3 will be treated separately from the Tier 1 and Tier 2 maintenance activities and quoted separately when the need arise. In general, the ORMS must always be online and available, hence the response time should be within 8 working hours.

4.1.1 Tier 1 - System Support related to ICT

- A. Tier 1 activities include day-to-day monitoring and evaluation of the online radiation monitoring system, ensuring that:
- I. The system is alive and reporting data on the correct schedule to the Kapua Server and the User Interface Server.
 - II. Data management and querying services are functioning on the Kapua and the User Interface Server.
 - III. Notification services are alive, and reporting data as expected.
 - IV. Services are not in imminent danger of collapse as a result of preventable issues such as disk space limitations or loss of connectivity between servers and sensors due to transitory network failures in the data centre.
 - V. Commissioning of new gateways and/or reinstallation of the gateway operating system if a hard drive becomes corrupted.
 - VI. Checking the ORMS user interface to see if all gateways are connected and gateways are streaming data.
 - VII. Check on the general health and connectivity of the field gateways by monitoring the station uptime and power consumption.

- VIII. Troubleshoot any network connectivity issues experienced with gateways connecting to the ORMS server via Vodacom 4G/5G offered by the NNR.
 - IX. ensure the ORMS server is running and manually restart the ORMS server software if a power failure occurred.
 - X. Periodic upgrades of the ORMS cloud server and applying security patches.
 - XI. The NNR will periodically conduct security tests against the server. The remediation plan will be developed, and the service provider will be expected to implement the remedial actions.
- B. Conduct of annual field inspections must be carried out to ensure the following.
- I. The solar panels – functionality and efficiency.
 - II. Functionality of weather station.
 - III. Functionality of all fuses inside the enclosure.
 - IV. A check of the surge protection inside the enclosure.
 - V. all cables inside the enclosure.
 - VI. the batteries functionality.
 - VII. the solar power regulator / charger unit (MPPT).
 - VIII. tightening of screws and or bolts where applicable.
 - IX. preparation and touch-up of seals and or grommets.
 - X. the replacement of any fuses if required.
 - XI. the replacement of any surge protection required.
 - XII. the replacement of any cables if required.
 - XIII. In case of station vandalism, to assess damaged and stolen equipment, and provide quotations for replacement of equipment.
 - XIV. Inspection of padlocks.

In case of station vandalization, where the main targets are the solar panels and batteries, the NNR will replace the spare parts, and the service provider will be required to assist in bringing the station online.

The service provider is expected to provide and implement a skills transfer plan to the NNR as required.

Non-Restricted

4.1.2 Tier 2 - System Support related to ICT

This support and maintenance tier is concerned with ensuring that regular deep maintenance of the system is performed and that any problems occurring that are outside of the tier 1 protocol can be dealt with.

- a) Software upgrades – management and testing of software upgrades that are required to keep the system operational and secure from time to time, including, for example:
 - i. operating systems updates.
 - ii. security patches to operating system or software components used to construct the system.
 - iii. updates to software components used to construct the system.
- b) Diagnostic interventions – diagnosing and fixing operational problems encountered in the components of the system. This may entail:
 - i. Restarting the system or components of the system.
 - ii. Implementing small bug fixes to software.
 - iii. Reinstating of Open Service Gateway Initiative packages if data is not streaming.
- c) System backups – assist with identification of critical data and configuration of backup of data (sensor data and configuration data). Since both servers (Kapua Server and the User Interface Server) reside in the NNR data center, the primary responsibility to back up vest with the NNR IT staff.

4.1.3 Tier 3 - System Support related to ICT (Design and Development)

This support and maintenance tier is concerned with ensuring that the system can be recovered from failures of the primary servers, and loss of direct communication between the primary sever and the User Interphase platform. Further development of the system and ensuring additional functionalities based of the design and development of the system, e.g. migration from EuroTech server to Kapua server. Kapua Server is currently linked and maintained as part of the NNR ICT services. A virtual server was created by NNR ICT and allocated some space for ORMS data.

Tier 3 activities will be treated separately from the general ICT maintenance support in Tier 1 and Tier 2. For this Tier, the service provider is expected to reserve 30 hours per quarter, unused hours must be carried over to the next quarter. Accumulation will be limited to the overall total of 60 hours per quarter. In case the number of hours is depleted, the service provider is required to specify the hourly rate and will be capped at additional 60 hours per quarter, and it will be charged separately.

On awarding of the contract, priority must be given to upgrading/development of the User Interface to visualise data from the ORMS stations/ Kapua visualised server. Visualisation of user interface platform must include the following:

Following the development or update of the User Interface platform, the system will be maintained in accordance with Tier 1 and Tier 2. The current status of the User Interface platform and the user requirements are summarised below:

User interface and required upgrades (Maintenance)

Following the migration to the open source of EuroTech server, the Kapua visualised server, the user interface to visualise and interpret data became dysfunctional. The current web interface for the ORMS system needs to be updated to support the latest standards in browser technologies as well as implement advances in security best practices.

It is mandatory for the Service provider to:

- reorganise the way in which data is presented to the end-user on the web interface, modifying the web interface based on the experience and end-user feedback obtained from interacting with the system.
- Improve the current visualisation of the MCA/Gamma Spectrometer results to easily interpret and identify the radionuclides information as required.
- Investigate the most probable platform in which the user interface can be deployed.

The service provide must develop or update, when necessary, the standard operating procedure (SOP) for IT support for all Tiers 1, 2 and 3.

4.2 General Maintenance and Civil work

Each of the 19 ORMS station is installed with a 1m x 1m concrete block foundation and reinforced with steel work, steel casings enclosing all the essential electronic equipment, cabling and batteries, steel brackets holding the solar panels and securing the steel casing. Due to exposure to extreme weather conditions, corrosion of steel works is possible and will periodically require re-galvanisation.

Furthermore, in case of station vandalization, where the main target are the solar panels and batteries inside the steel casing, the NNR will replace the spare parts and the service provider will be required to assist with manufacturing of the damaged steel casing brackets, replacement of the steel casings and relocation of the stations where necessary. The service provider will be required to provide the services when the need arise and provide the NNR with a quotation. Approval by the NNR will be made by means of Purchase Order.

4.3 Maintenance of Radiological Monitoring Equipment

The ORMS is installed with radiation detection systems consisting of a Multichannel Analyzer (MCA) NaI 527 Spectrometer and the GM Tubes RM 60 Pro from Aware Electronics. There are 33 GMTs and 7 MCA detectors in total.

The GM Tube as well as MCAs require periodical calibration and in-field functionality test to ensure continuous functionality of the system. The MCA-527 will need to be verified. The MCA-527 was verified at the NNR Laboratory using the manufacturer supplied procedure and radioactive sources available at the Laboratory.

The NNR is currently responsible for calibration and verification of the system.

The service provider is required to provide the following services

1. Remote assistance ensuring the detectors are back on-line following calibration process.
2. Procurement of additional GMT spares and auxiliary equipment.
3. Conduct NaI detector verification on implementation of the contract in the beginning and end of contract (or as and when required), to determine the state of the detector.
