Sono calls for indaba on restructuring of ABC Motsepe League

● There is no discussion of football here, says footballing great

Mahlatse Mphahlele

Jomo Sono says the time has arrived for football leaders to have a discussion on how to restructure the ABC Motsepe League and take it out of the doldrums.

Over the years there have been countless allegations of impropriety, mostly to do with poor officiating, in South Africa's third tier, where Sono's Jomo Cosmos compete.

The Orlando Pirates and South African footballing great said the league is a good platform to produce players for the Betway Premiership but it is spoiled by "other things".

"People mustn't underestimate the ABC Motsepe League because it is tough; it is spoiled by other things I won't mention," Sono said.

The outspoken Sono made a passionate plea for football officials to have a discussion with club owners and relevant stakeholders to discuss how the league can be restructured.

"I have noticed in South African football officials and everybody else don't discuss football. There is no discussion of football here — if the leader has decided it will just be like that.

"There have never been meetings where we discuss the way forward for football, to say, 'How can we restructure this ABC Motsepe League?'

"You play the whole year, win the league and you go to the playoffs to get knocked out there. It doesn't make sense and it's painful.

"We need to sit down as football. Officials must call us to a football indaba where everybody is given an opportunity to say something.

"Journalists, supporters and chairs of clubs must be involved in that discussion."

Sono said there is much that could be exposed in South African football at amateur level and the league has not evolved.

"Let's sit down and talk about football and stop hammering each other in the press.

"There is so much that can be exposed about amateur football but it is not the way now.

"Football has evolved but we are sticking to the same story for so many years.

"The reason is officials in football don't want to sit with stakeholders because they feel intimidated.

"They want to sit there and decide on their own and decide for us. We have to play because we are members but I think the time has come for stakeholders in football to sit down and have a discussion.

"We are not going to fight, we are going to talk and see what can we do about this ABC Motsepe League because it is a good league. If it is properly run, it can even be a better league.

"Most of the players in the PSL come from this league."

Cosmos, a club with a rich history that won the 1987 National Soccer League title, became a yo-yo team between the Premiership and National First Division (NFD) in the 2000s and 2010s. Exenkosi then spent six seasons in the NFD before their relegation to the ABC Motsepe League at the end of the 2021/2022 season. — TimesLIVE

Arnold under pressure after Socceroos flop in Jakarta

Australia coach Graham Arnold was engulfed in a storm of criticism from home fans and media yesterday after the scoreless Socceroos again failed to despatch a low-ranked opponent in World Cup qualifying.

Hoping to rebound from a shock 1-0 loss to Bahrain on home soil last week, the Socceroos were held 0-0 by world number 133 Indonesia in Jakarta on Tuesday in a setback to their hopes of direct qualification for the 2026 showpiece in North America.

By contrast, Group C heavyweights Japan backed up their 7-0 demolition of China with a 5-0 thrashing of Bahrain in Riffa to hold top spot on six points, while West Asian powerhouse Saudi Arabia beat China away to lie second.

With only the top two qualifying directly, fifth-placed Australia will be under huge pressure to take maximum points at home against China in next month's qualifying window.

Australia have long struggled to score against teams who sit back and defend in numbers but patience is wearing thin.

"It sharpens the scrutiny on Arnold, his tactics and his selections, with the national team clearly struggling to function in attack," soccer writer Vince Rugari wrote in the Sydney Morning Herald.

Australia had 15 corners and hogged 63% of possession against Indonesia, and while they racked up 19 shots on goal only five of them were on target.

Underlining his frustration, Arnold, usually the most staunch defender of his players, was critical of them, saying he could not "play the game for them".

"Second spot is on four points at the moment," he said of the standings.

"So it's not like it's a disaster, but I've got to go home and do a lot of thinking."

Plenty of fans on social media suggested Arnold has had more than enough thinking time and called for change.

Some may have short memories.

Less than two years ago, Arnold was feted as a national hero as the Socceroos reached the last 16 at Qatar and won two matches at a World Cup for the first time.

Arnold has insisted the Socceroos can go further in 2026.

However, there was dwindling confidence among home fans on Wednesday that he is the right coach to take them there.

"As unpleasant as it is to say, Australia's struggles in possession against anything resembling an organised defence are starting to look like an Arnold problem," local soccer writer Emma Kemp wrote in The Age. — Reuters

Brazil slump to 1-0 defeat in Paraguay

Brazil slumped to a fourth defeat in their last five World Cup qualifiers on Tuesday after a first-half goal by Diego Gomez gave Paraguay a 1-0 win in Asuncion.

Five-times world champions Brazil, who scraped a 1-0 home win over Ecuador on Friday, are fifth in South American qualifying for the 2026 World Cup with 10 points, ahead of Venezuela on goal difference.

The top six qualify directly for the World Cup in the US, Mexico and Canada, with the seventh place offering passage via further rounds of qualifiers.

Manager Dorival Jr, who took over from Tite after Brazil's quarterfinal exit at the 2022 World Cup, looked forlorn on the sidelines as his side were comprehensively outplayed.

Brazil failed to record a shot on target in the first half and fell behind in the 20th minute when Gomez rifled home from the edge of the box, the ball smacking the post on its way past Alisson into the net.

"The coach is still figuring out the best way for us to play and that's reflected in the result," defender Marquinhos told Brazilian TV Globo.

"There are a lot of new players, we are lacking confidence.

"Qualifying isn't easy, it's a difficult time and we have to know how to manage it.

"It's a time of transition, we're not feeling confident. We're going to work hard — getting results on the pitch is the best answer."

Brazil had only three shots on target in the match, all via a frustrated Vinicius Jr, who has been unable to have the same impact for his country as he has for club side for Real Madrid.

Brazil will look to get back on track next month when they travel to face Chile before hosting Peru. — Reuters
