Appendix A – Scope of Work

The South African Bureau of Standards (SABS) is a statutory body established under the Standards Act, 1945 (Act No. 24 of 1945) and operates under the latest edition of the Standards Act, 2008 (Act No. 8 of 2008). The organization serves as the national standardization institution in South Africa and has the following mandates:

Develop, promote, and maintain South African National Standards (SANS):

The SABS is responsible for the creation, promotion, and upkeep of national standards in South Africa. These standards ensure quality, safety, and reliability across various industries and sectors.

Promote quality in connection with commodities, products, and services:

The SABS aims to enhance and maintain quality standards for commodities, products, and services offered in South Africa. It works towards ensuring that these goods and services meet the required quality and safety standards.

Render conformity assessment services and assist in matters connected therewith:

The SABS provides conformity assessment services to evaluate whether products, services, or management systems meet specific requirements or standards. This assessment ensures compliance and certification, giving assurance to customers and stakeholders.

The SABS is in a process of restructuring its macro and micro processes in line with the organisational review. Also aligning to the new operating model to enable integration and collaboration as part of transitioning into the new organisational structure.
